TREATY of Commerce between Her Majesty and the Emperor of Austria; with the Final Protocol.

Signed at Vienna, December 16, 1865.

[Ratifications exchanged at Vienna, January 4, 1866.]

HER Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the one part; and His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, King of Hungary and Bohemia, &c., on the other part; being equally animated by the desire of regulating and extending the commercial relations between their respective States and Possessions, have resolved to conclude a Treaty for that purpose, and have named for their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say :—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, &c., the Right Honourable John Arthur Douglas, Baron Bloomfield of Oakhampton and Redwood, a Peer of Ireland, a Member of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty ;

And His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, King of Hungary and Bohemia, &c., Alexander Count Mensdorff-Pouilly, Grand Cross of the Order of Leopold, with the military decoration belonging to the Commander's Cross of the same Order, Knight of the Order of Maria Theresa, and Possessor of the Cross of Military Merit, Knight Commander of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Lieutenant-General of His Imperial Majesty's Army, Privy Councillor and Chamberlain, Minister of the Imperial House and of Foreign Affairs ; and Bernhard, Baron Wüllerstorf-Urbair, Knight of the Order of the Iron Crown of the Second Class, Rear-Admiral in His Imperial Majesty's Navy, Privy Councillor, and Minister for Commerce ;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles :—

ARTICLE I.

During the continuance of the present Treaty, the subjects and commerce of Austria shall enjoy within all the dominions and possessi ns of Her Britannic Majesty, including Her Majesty's Colonies and foreign possessions, the same advantages which have been conceded to French subjects and commerce by the Treaty between Her Majesty and the Emperor of the French, signed at Paris on the 23rd of January, 1860, and to the subjects and commerce of the States of the Zollverein by the Treaty between Her Majesty and His Majesty the King of Prussia, representing the sovereign States and territories united to the Prussian system of customs and contributions, signed at Berlin on the 30th of May, 1865; and further, Austrian subjects and commerce shall be placed in all other respects on the footing of the subjects and commerce of the most favoured nation.

ARTICLE II.

From and after the 1st of January, 1867, British subjects and commerce shall, within the dominions of His Imperial and Royal Majesty, be placed in every respect upon the footing of the most-favoured nation, and share in all the advantages and favours which are enjoyed by the commerce and subjects of any third Power.

From this rule are excepted:—

a. Advantages such as those which, for the sole purpose of facilitating frontier traffic, are at present conceded, or may hereafter be conceded, to the States of the German Zollverein, or to other neighbouring States; and also those reductions of, or exemptions from Customs duties which are valid only at certain parts of the frontier, or for the inhabitants of particular localities.

b. Those advantages which belong, or may hereafter be conceded, to the subjects of the German Confederation, in virtue of Federal Treaties and Federal Laws.

c. Those special and ancient privileges which are enjoyed by Turkish subjects, as such, for Turkish commerce in Austria.

ARTICLE III.

The Austrian Customs Tariff (the present system of calculating Customs duties by weight being maintained) shall be so regulated that the duty to be levied upon articles the produce or manufacture of the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, upon their importation into the Austrian States, shall, from the 1st of January, 1867, not exceed 25 per cent. of the value, with the addition of the cost of transport, insurance, and commission necessary for the importation into Austria as far as the Austrian Customs frontier; and for this purpose there shall serve as basis the average value of the articles included under one and the same denomination in each position of the future Austrian Tariff.

From and after the 1st of January, 1870, the maximum of these duties shall not exceed 20 per cent. of the value, with the additions above defined.

The articles of State monopolies (tobacco, salt, gunpowder), and further, the goods comprised in Classes 1 and 7 of the present Austrian Tariff, are excepted from these maxima.

ARTICLE IV.

Commissioners from both Governments shall meet not later than the month of March 1866, for the purpose of ascertaining and determining the values and additional charges, and they shall take as the basis of their calculations the average prices at the principal centres of production and commerce of the United Kingdom for the year 1865.

Three years after the duties fixed by Treaty shall have come into operation, each of the Contracting Parties shall have the right to claim a revision of the values.

ARTICLE V.

Those duties of the future Austrian Tariff to come into operation on the 1st of January, 1867, to which England attaches a special interest, shall form the subject of a supplementary Convention to be concluded between the two Contracting Parties.

The articles of State monopoly, as also the goods subject to fiscal duties included in Classes 1 and 7 of the present Tariff, remain also here excepted.

ARTICLE VI.

Internal imposts which are levied in the territory of one party on the production, preparation, or use of any article, whether on account of the State or on account of municipalities and corporations, shall under no pretext affect the productions of the other party in a higher or more onerous degree than the same productions of native origin.

ARTICLE VII.

The Contracting Parties agree that every reduction in their Tariffs of import or export duties, and every privilege, favour, or immunity which either Contracting Party may hereafter grant to the subjects and commerce of a third Power, shall be extended immediately and unconditionally to the other Contracting Party, with a reserve, however, of the exceptions enumerated in Article II, a and b.

ARTICLE VIII.

The subjects of one of the Contracting Parties shall enjoy in the dominions and possessions of the other, equality of treatment with native subjects in regard to charges on loading and unloading, to warehousing, and to the transit trade, as also in regard to bounties, facilities, and drawbacks.

ARTICLE IX.

The subjects of one of the two High Contracting Powers shall, in the dominions of the other, enjoy the same protection as native subjects in regard to the rights of property in trade marks, and other distinctive marks, as well as in patterns and designs for manufactures.

ARTICLE X.

The High Contracting Parties reserve to themselves to determine hereafter, by a special Convention, the means of reciprocally protecting copyright in works of literature and the fine arts within their respective dominions.

ARTICLE XI.

The present Treaty shall remain in force for the space of ten years, to date from the 1st of January, 1867; and in case neither of the High Contracting Powers shall have notified to the other twelve months before the expiration of the said period of ten years, the intention to put an end to its operation, the Treaty shall continue in force for another year, and so on from year to year, until the expiration of a year counting from the day on which one or other of the High Contracting Parties shall have announced its intention to put an end to it.

The High Contracting Parties reserve to themselves the right to introduce, by common consent, into this Treaty, any modification which is not opposed to its spirit and principles, and the utility of which shall have been shown by experience. —

ARTICLE XII.

The present Treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged in Vienna, in three weeks, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Done at Vienna, this sixteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

(L.S.) BLOOMFIELD.

Final Protocol.

UPON proceeding to the signature of the Treaty of Commerce concluded this day between Great Britain and Austria, the Plenipotentiaries of the two Powers made the following Declarations :—

I. The Plenipotentiaries of His Majesty the Emperor of Austria declared that in virtue of Article XIII of the Treaty of Customs and Contributions Union of the 23rd December, 1863, between Austria and Liechtenstein, the Treaty of Commerce concluded this day would apply equally to the Principality of Liechtenstein, and the British Plenipotentiary accepted this declaration.

II. In order to avoid any future doubt as to the intention of Article III, the Plenipotentiaries of the two Powers agreed to the following explanation :

In the construction of a Tariff of specific duties by weight within fixed ad valorem rates, it is necessary to determine what shall be the unit of value to which each specific duty shall be applied.

In adopting the basis of value established by Article III, it is understood that it is not intended to depart from the general principle of the Article, viz., the application of certain maximum ad valorem rates of duty to all articles of British produce and manufacture, but to guard against the necessity of making separate provision for every variety of each article, thereby creating minute and inconvenient subdivisions in the Tariff.

With this view, it becomes necessary to group together those different qualities and descriptions of the same article or of similar articles which, from their approximation in value and general resemblance in character, it is found possible to include under one and the same denomination in one position of the Tariff.

But it is understood that in fixing the denominations in each position of the future Austrian Tariff, they shall be so arranged that the duty affixed to any one position shall not exceed the "maximum" rates fixed by Article III of the Treaty upon the average value of any kind of goods of commercial importance included under any one denomination in such position, unless by common consent it is considered expedient or necessary.

III. With reference to Article IV, the Plenipotentiaries likewise agreed that if it shall be found that the prices of any kinds of goods have been essentially disturbed by exceptional causes during the twelve months of the year 1865, the Commissioners of the two Governments shall endeavour to find such a basis of value as shall be considered to correspond to a fair average value for future years.

In the case of textile manufactures (the prices of which have been seriously deranged during the late war in the United States of America), it is agreed, that if the average prices of the year 1865 be taken as a basis of value, either Contracting Party may elaim a revision of such valuation after the 1st of January, 1868.

IV. The British Plenipotentiary then declared that:

Her Britannic Majesty engages to recommene to Parliament the abolition of the duties payabld on the importation of wood and timber into the United Kingdom, and also the reduction of the duties payable on wine in bottle to the amount of those payable on wine in wood upon importation into the United Kingdom.

V. The Imperial Austrian Plenipotentiaries on their part declared that:

The duty upon the export of rags from the States and Possessions of His Imperial and Royal Majesty shall, from and after the 1st of July, 1866, be redueed to two florins the Zollcentner; and that:

The duty upon the importation of salted herrings into the States and Possessions of His Imperial and Royal Majesty shall, from the 1st of February, 1866, be redueed to 50 kreutzers per Zollcentner, gross weight.

In witness whereof the Undersigned Plenipotentiaries have drawn up the present Protoeol in duplicate form, to which, after it had been duly read, they affixed their signatures.

VICTORIA, R.

WHEREAS We are happily at Peace with all Sovereigns, Powers, and States:

And whereas hostilities have unhappily commenced between the Government of Spain and the Government of the Republic of Chili:

And whereas, We being at Peace with both the said Governments, have declared Our Royal determination to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the contest between the said contending parties:

We, therefore, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation:

And we do hereby strictly charge and command all Our loving subjects to observe a strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid hostilities, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws and statutes of the realm in this behalf, or the law of nations in relation thereto, as they will answer to the contrary at their peril.

And whereas, in and by a certain statute made and passed in the fifty-ninth year of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to "prevent the enlisting or engagement of His Ma- "jesty's subjects to serve in a foreign service, and "the fitting out or equipping, in His Majesty's "dominions, vessels for warlike purposes, without "His Majesty's licence," it is, amongst other things, declared and enacted as follows:—

"That if any natural-born subject of His Majesty, His heirs and successors, without the leave or licence of His Majesty, His heirs or successors, for that purpose first had and obtained, under the sign manual of His Majesty, His heirs or successors, or signified by Order in Council, or by proclamation of His Majesty, His heirs or successors, shall take or accept, or shall agree to take or accept, any military commission, or shall otherwise enter into the military service as a commissioned or non-commissioned officer, or shall enlist or enter himself to enlist, or shall agree to enlist, or to enter himself to serve as a soldier, or to be employed, or shall serve in any warlike or military operation, in the service of, or for, or under, or in aid of any foreign prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government in or over any foreign country, colony, province, or part of any province or people, either as an officer or soldier, or in any other military capacity; or if any natural-born subject of His Majesty shall, without such leave or licence as aforesaid, any person whatever, within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions elsewhere, or in any country, colony, settlement, island, or place, belonging to or subject to His Majesty, shall hire, retain, engage, or procure, or shall attempt or endeavour to hire, retain, engage, or procure, any person or persons whatever to enlist, or to enter or engage to enlist, or to serve or to be employed, in any such service or employment as aforesaid, as an officer, soldier, sailor, or marine, either in land or sea service, for, or under, or in aid of, any foreign prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or for, or under, or in aid of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government as aforesaid, or to go, or to agree to go, or embark from any part of His Majesty's dominions, for the purpose, or with the intent to be so enlisted, entered, engaged, or employed as aforesaid, whether any enlisting money, pay, or reward, shall have been, or shall be actually given or received, or not, in any or either of such cases, every person so offending, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, shall be punishable by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court, before which such offender shall be convicted."

excise, or any officer of His Majesty's navy, who is by law empowered to make seizures, for any forfeiture incurred under any of the laws of customs or excise, or the laws of trade and navigation, to seize such ships and vessels aforesaid, and in such places and in such manner in which the officers of His Majesty's customs or excise, and the officers of His Majesty's navy are empowered respectively to make seizures under the laws of customs and excise, or under the laws of trade and navigation ; and that every such ship and vessel, with the tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition, and stores which may belong to, or be on board of such ship or vessel, may be prosecuted and condemned, in the like manner and in such Courts as ships or vessels may be prosecuted and condemned, for any breach of the laws made for the protection of the revenues of customs and excise, or of the laws of trade and navigation."

And it is in and by the said Act further enacted :—

"That if any person in any part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, without the leave and licence of His Majesty for that purpose, first had and obtained as aforesaid, shall, by adding to the number of the guns of such vessel, or by changing those on board for other guns, or by the addition of any equipment for war, increase or augment, or procure to be increased or augmented, or shall be knowingly concerned in increasing or augmenting the warlike force of any ship or vessel of war or cruizer, or other armed vessel, which at the time of her arrival in any part of the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's dominions, was a ship of war, cruizer, or armed vessel in the service of any foreign prince, state, or potentate, or of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government in or over any colony, province, or part of any province or people belonging to the subjects of any such prince, state, or potentate, or to the inhabitants of any colony, province, or part of any province or country under the control of any person or persons so exercising or assuming to exercise the powers of government, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court, before which such offender shall be convicted."

Now, in order that none of Our subjects may unwarily render themselves liable to the penalties imposed by the said Statute, We do hereby strictly command that no person or persons whatsoever do commit any act, matter, or thing whatsoever, contrary to the provisions of the said Statute, upon pain of the several penalties by the said Statute imposed, and of Our high displeasure.

And We do hereby further warn all Our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to Our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this Our Royal Proclamation, and of Our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of their duty, as subjects of a neutral Sovereign, in the said contest, or in violation or contravention of the law of nations in that behalf, as for example and more especially by entering into the military service of either of the said contending parties as commissioned or non-commissioned officers or soldiers; or by serving as officers, sailors, or marines on board any ship or vessel of war or transport, of or in the service of either of the said contending parties, or by serving as officers, sailors, or marines on board any privateer bearing letters of marque of or from either of the said contending parties; or by engaging to go or going to any place beyond the seas, with intent to enlist or engage in any such service; or by procuring or attempting to procure, within Her Majesty's dominions at home or abroad, others to do so; or by fitting out, arming, or equipping any ship or vessel to be employed as a ship of war or privateer or transport, by either of the said contending parties; or by breaking, or endeavouring to break, any blockade lawfully and actually established by or on behalf of either of the said contending parties; or by carrying officers, soldiers, despatches, arms, military stores or materials, or any article or articles considered and deemed to be contraband of war, according to the law or modern usage of nations, for the use or service of either of the said contending parties, all persons so offending will incur and be liable to the several penalties and penal consequences by the said Statute, or by the law of nations, in that behalf imposed or denounced.

And We do hereby declare that all Our subjects, and persons entitled to Our protection, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and of their own wrong, and that they will in no wise obtain any protection from Us against any liabilities or penal consequences, but will, on the contrary, incur Our high displeasure by such misconduct.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 9, 1866.

Buckingham Palace, February 6, 1866.

THIS day Her Majesty proceeded in state from Buckingham Palace to the House of Peers, where she arrived soon after two o'clock ; and was received, on alighting from Her state carriage, by the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President, the Lord Privy Seal, Lord Colville of Culross, officiating for the Lord Great Chamberlain (the Lord Willoughby de Eresby), the Deputy Earl Marshal, Garter King of Arms, and Black Rod, and proceeded into the House in the usual order;—the crown was borne by the Marquis of Lansdowne, the sword of state by the Lord President, and the cap of maintenance by the Marquis of Winchester.

Her Majesty being seated on the Throne, and the Great Officers of State and others standing in their respective places on the right and left, Black Rod was sent with a message from Her Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their immediate attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, Her Majesty was pleased to deliver to the Lord Chancellor the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament, which Her Majesty commanded his Lordship to read, and which he accordingly did:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

IT is with great satisfaction that I have recourse to your assistance and advice.

I have recently declared my consent to a marriage between my daughter Princess Helena and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein Sonderbourg-Augustenburg. I trust this union may be prosperous and happy.

The death of my beloved uncle the King of the Belgians has affected me with profound grief. I feel great confidence, however, that the wisdom which he evinced during his reign will animate his successor, and preserve for Belgium her independence and prosperity.

My relations with Foreign Powers are friendly and satisfactory, and I see no cause to fear any disturbance of the general Peace.

The meeting of the fleets of France and England in the ports of the respective countries has tended to cement the amity of the two nations, and to prove to the World their friendly concert in the promotion of Peace.

I have observed with satisfaction that the United States, after terminating successfully the severe struggle in which they were so long engaged, are wisely repairing the ravages of civil war. The Abolition of Slavery is an event calling forth the cordial sympathies and congratulations of this country, which has always been foremost in showing its abhorrence of an institution repugnant to every feeling of justice and humanity.

I have at the same time the satisfaction to inform you that the exertions and perseverance of my Naval Squadron have reduced the Slave Trade on the West Coast of Africa within very narrow limits.

A correspondence has taken place between my Government and that of the United States with respect to injuries inflicted on American commerce by cruisers under the Confederate flag. Copies of this correspondence will be laid before you.

The renewal of diplomatic relations with Brazil has given me much satisfaction ; and I acknowledge with pleasure that the good offices of my Ally the King of Portugal have contributed essentially to this happy result.

I have to regret the interruption of peace between Spain and Chili. The good offices of my Government, in conjunction with those of the Government of the Emperor of the French, have been accepted by Spain, and it is my earnest hope that the causes of disagreement may be removed in a manner honourable and satisfactory to both countries.

The negotiations which have been long pending in Japan, and which have been conducted with great ability by my minister in that country, in conjunction with the representatives of my allies in Japan, have been brought to a conclusion which merits my entire approbation. The existing Treaties have been ratified by the Mikado; it has been stipulated that the tariff shall be revised in a manner favourable to commerce, and that the indemnity due under the terms of the Convention of October, 1864, shall be punctually discharged.

I have concluded a Treaty of commerce with the Emperor of Austria, which I trust will open to that empire the blessings of extended commerce, and be productive of important benefits to both countries.

The deplorable events which have occurred in the Island of Jamaica have induced me to provide at once for an impartial inquiry, and for the due maintenance of authority during that inquiry, by appointing a distinguished military officer as Governor and Commander of the Forces. I have given him the assistance of two able and learned Commissioners, who will aid him in examining into the origin, nature, and circumstances of the recent outbreak, and the measures adopted in the course of its suppression. The Legislature of Jamaica has proposed that the present political constitution of the island should be replaced by a new form of Government. A Bill upon this subject will be submitted for your consideration.

Papers on these occurrences will be laid before you.

Papers on the present state of New Zealand will be laid before you.

I have given directions for the return to this country of the greater portion of my Regular Forces employed in that Colony.

I watch with interest the proceedings which are still in progress in British North Ameriea with a view to a closer union among the provinces, and I continue to attach great importance to that object.

I have observed with great concern the extensive prevalence, during the last few months, of a virulent distemper among cattle in Great Britain, and it is with deep regret, and with sincere sympathy for the sufferers, that I have learnt the severe losses which it has caused in many counties and districts. It is satisfactory to know that Ireland and a considerable part of Scotland are as yet free from this ealamity, and I trust that by the precautions suggested by experienee, and by the Divine blessing on the means which are now being employed, its further extension may be arrested.

The Orders which have been made by the Lords of my Privy Counеil, by virtue of the powers vested in them by law, with a view to prevent the spreading of this disease, will be laid before you ; and your attention will be ealled to the expediency of an amendment of the law relating to a subject so deeply affeeting the interests of my people.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have directed that the Estimates for the ensuing year shall be laid before you. They have been prepared with a due regard to economy, and are at the same time consistent with the maintenance of effieiency in the Public Service.

The condition of Trade is satisfactory.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

A Conspiracy, adverse alike to authority, property, and religion, and disapproved and condemned alike by all who are interested in their maintenance, without distinction of creed or class.

has unhappily appeared in Ireland. The constitutional power of the ordinary tribunals has been exerted for its repression, and the authority of the law has been firmly and impartially vindicated.

A Bill will be submitted to you, founded on the Report of the Royal Commission, on the subject of Capital Punishment, which I have directed to be laid before you.

Bills will be laid before you for amending and consolidating the Laws relating to Bankruptcy, and for other Improvements in the Law.

Measures will also be submitted to you for extending the System of Public Audit to branches of receipt and expenditure which it has not hitherto reached, and for amending the provisions of the Law with respect to certain classes of legal pensions.

Your attention will be called to the subject of the Oaths taken by Members of Parliament, with a view to avoid unnecessary declarations, and to remove invidious distinctions between members of different religious communities in matters of Legislation.

I have directed that information should be procured in reference to the Rights of Voting in the election of Members to serve in Parliament for counties, cities, and boroughs.

When that information is complete, the attention of Parliament will be called to the result thus obtained, with a view to such improvements in the laws which regulate the rights of voting in the election of Members of the House of Commons as may tend to strengthen our free institutions, and conduce to the public welfare.

In these and in all other deliberations I fervently pray that the blessing of Almighty God may guide your counsels to the promotion of the happiness of my people.

Foreign Office, February 26, 1866.

COPY of a Letter from the Earl of Clarendon to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty:

Foreign Office,

My Lords, February 25, 1866.

HER Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing hostilities between Her Catholic Majesty and the Republics of Chile and Peru, and being, moreover, resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbours, ports, and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction, in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordships, for your guidance, the following rules, which are to be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's Orders and Directions.

Her Majesty is pleased further to command that these rules shall be put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands on and after Friday, the 2nd day of March next, and in Her Majesty's territories and possessions beyond the seas, six days after the day when the Governor or other chief authority of each of such territories or possessions respectively shall have notified and published the same, stating in such notification that the said rules are to be obeyed by all persons within the same territories and possessions.

I. During the continuance of the present hostilities between Her Catholic Majesty and the Republics of Chile and Peru, all ships of war and privateers of either belligerent are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's Colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, or of any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities of warlike equipment; and no ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted to sail out of or leave any port, roadstead, or waters, subject to British jurisdiction, from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war, a privateer, or a merchant ship), shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

II. If any ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall, after the time when this order shall be first notified and put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands, and in the several colonies and foreign possessions and dependencies of Her Majesty, respectively, enter any port, roadstead, or waters, belonging to Her Majesty, either in the United Kingdom, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, such vessel shall be required to depart and to put to sea, within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, roadstead, or waters, except in case of stress of weather, or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or repairs; in either of which cases, the authorities of the port, or of the nearest port (as the case may be), shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours, without permitting her to take in supplies, beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use: and no such vessel, which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair, shall continue in any such port, roadstead, or waters, for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed: Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which there shall be any vessels (whether ships of war, privateers, or merchant ships), of the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead, or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel (whether a ship of war, a privateer, or a merchant ship), of the one belligerent, and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship of war or privateer of the other belligerent; and the times, hereby limited, for the departure of such ships of war and privateers respectively, shall always, in case of necessity, be extended, so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this proviso, but not further or otherwise.

III. No ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted, while in any port, roadstead, or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, to take in any supplies, except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 13, 1866.

Whitehall, March 12, 1866.

THE Queen has been pleased, by Warrant under Her Majesty's Royal Sign Manual, whereof a copy is appended, to institute a New Decoration, to be styled the Albert Medal, to be awarded, in cases where it shall be considered fit, to such persons as shall, after the date of the Warrant, endanger their own lives in saving, or in endeavouring to save, the lives of others from shipwreck or other peril of the sea.

WARRANT INSTITUTING A NEW DECORATION TO BE STYLED THE ALBERT MEDAL.

VICTORIA, R.

VICTORIA, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, &c., to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting:

Whereas, We, taking into Our Royal consideration that great loss of life is sustained by reason of shipwrecks and other perils of the sea, and taking also into consideration the many daring and heroic actions performed by mariners and others to prevent such loss, and to save the lives of those who are in danger of perishing by reason of wrecks and perils of the sea; and taking also into consideration the expediency of distinguishing such efforts by some mark of Our Royal favour: Now, for the purpose of attaining an end so desirable as that of rewarding such actions as aforesaid, We have instituted and created, and by these presents, for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, institute and create a new Decoration, which We are desirous should be highly prized and eagerly sought after, and are graciously pleased to make, ordain, and establish the following Rules and Ordinances for the government of the same, which shall from henceforth be inviolably observed and kept:

First.—It is ordained that the distinction shall be styled "The Albert Medal," and shall consist of a gold oval-shaped badge or decoration, enamelled in dark blue, with a monogram composed of the letters V. and A. interlaced, with an anchor erect, in gold, surrounded with a garter, in bronze, inscribed in raised letters of gold "For Gallantry in Saving Life at Sea," and surmounted by a representation of the crown of His Royal Highness the lamented Prince Consort, and suspended from a dark blue riband of five-eighths of an inch in width, with two white longitudinal stripes.

Secondly.—It is ordained that the Medal shall be suspended from the left breast.

Thirdly.—It is ordained that the names of those upon whom We may be pleased to confer the decoration shall be published in the London Gazette, and a Registry thereof kept in the Office of the Board of Trade.

Fourthly.—It is ordained, that any one who, after having received the medal again, performs an act which, if he had not received such medal, would have entitled him to it, such further act shall be recorded by a bar attached to the riband by which the Medal is suspended, and for every such additional act an additional bar may be added.

Fifthly.—It is ordained, that the Medal shall only be awarded to those who, after the date of this Instrument, have, in saving, or endeavouring to save, the lives of others from shipwreck or other peril of the sea, endangered their own lives; and that such award shall be made only on a recommendation to Us by the President of the Board of Trade.

Sixthly.—In order to make such additional provision as shall effectually preserve pure this most honourable distinction; it is ordained that if any person on whom such distinction is conferred be guilty of any crime or disgraceful conduct which, in our judgment, disqualifies him for the said Decoration, his name shall forthwith be erased from the registry of individuals upon whom the said Decoration shall have been conferred by an especial Warrant under Our Royal Sign Manual, and his Medal shall be forfeited ; and every person to whom the said Medal is given shall, before receiving the same, enter into an engagement to return the same if his name shall be so erased as aforesaid under this regulation. It is hereby further declared that We, Our heirs and successors shall be the sole judges of the circumstance demanding such expulsion ; moreover, We shall at all times have power to restore such persons as may at any time have been expelled, to the enjoyment of the Decoration.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, this seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, in the twenty-ninth year of Our reign.

By Her Majesty's command,

G. GREY.

By the QUEEN.

A PROCLAMATION.

VICTORIA, R.

WHEREAS We are happily at Peace with all Sovereigns, Powers, and States :

And whereas hostilities have unhappily commenced between the Government of Spain and the Government of the Republic of Peru :

And whereas, We being at Peace with both the said Governments, have declared Our Royal determination to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the contest between the said contending parties :

We, therefore, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation :

And we do hereby strictly charge and command all Our loving subjects to observe a strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid hostilities, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws and statutes of the realm in this behalf, or the law of nations in relation thereto, as they will answer to the contrary at their peril.

And whereas, in and by a certain statute made and passed in the fifty-ninth year of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to "prevent the enlisting or engagement of His Ma- "jesty's subjects to serve in a foreign service, and "the fitting out or equipping, in His Majesty's "dominions, vessels for warlike purposes, without "His Majesty's licence," it is, amongst other things, declared and enacted as follows:—

"That if any natural-born subject of His Majesty, His heirs and successors, without the leave or licence of His Majesty, His heirs or successors. for that purpose first had and obtained, under the sign manual of His Majesty, His heirs or successors, or signified by Order in Council, or by proclamation of His Majesty, His heirs or successors. shall take or accept, or shall agree to take or accept, any military commission, or shall otherwise enter into the military service as a commissioned or non-commissioned officer, or shall enlist or enter himself to enlist, or shall agree to enlist, or to enter himself to serve as a soldier, or to be employed, or shall serve in any warlike or military operation, in the service of, or for, or under, or in aid of any foreign prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government in or over any foreign country, colony, province, or part of any province or people, either as an officer or soldier, or in any other military capacity; or if any natural-born subject of His Majesty shall, without such leave or licence as aforesaid, accept or agree to take, or accept any commission, warrant, or appointment as an officer, or shall enlist or enter himself, or shall agree to enlist or enter himself, to serve as a sailor or marine, or to be employed, or engaged, or shall serve in and on board any ship or vessel of war, or in and on board any ship or vessel used, or fitted out, or equipped, or intended to be used for any warlike purpose, in the service of, or for, or under, or in aid of any foreign power, prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons, exercising or assuming to exercise the powers of government in or over any foreign country, colony, province, or part of any province or people ; or if any natural-born subject of His Majesty shall, without such leave and licence as aforesaid, engage, contract, or agree to go, or shall go to any foreign state, country, colony, province, or part of any province, or to any place beyond the seas, with an intent, or in order to enlist or enter himself to serve, or with intent to serve in any warlike or military operation whatever, whether by land or by sea, in the service of, or for, or under, or in aid of any foreign prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or in the service of, or for, or under, or in aid of any person or persons, exercising or assuming to exercise the powers of government in or over any foreign country, colony, province, or part of any province or people, either as an officer or a soldier, or in any other military capacity, or as an officer or sailor, or marine, in any such ship or vessel as aforesaid, although no enlisting money, or pay, or reward, shall have been, or shall be in any or either of the cases aforesaid, actually paid to, or received by him, or by any person to or for his use or benefit, or, if any person whatever, within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions elsewhere, or in any country, colony, settlement, island, or place, belonging to or subject to His Majesty, shall hire, retain, engage, or procure, or shall attempt or endeavour to hire, retain, engage, or procure, any person or persons whatever to enlist, or to enter or engage to enlist, or to serve or to be employed, in any such service or employment as aforesaid, as an officer, soldier, sailor, or marine, either in land or sea service, for, or under, or in aid of, any foreign prince, state, potentate, colony, province, or part of any province or people, or for, or under, or in aid of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government as aforesaid, or to go, or to agree to go, or embark from any part of His Majesty's dominions, for the purpose, or with the intent to be so enlisted, entered, engaged, or employed as aforesaid, whether any enlisting money, pay, or reward, shall have been, or shall be actually given or received, or not, in any or either of such cases, every person so offending, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, shall be punishable by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court, before which such offender shall be convicted."

And it is in and by the said Act further enacted :—

"That if any person within any part of the United Kingdom, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, shall, without the leave and license of His Majesty for that purpose first had and obtained as aforesaid, equip, furnish, fit out, or arm, or attempt or endeavour to equip, furnish, fit out, or arm, or procure to be equipped, furnished, fitted out, or armed, or shall knowingly aid, assist, or be concerned in the equipping, furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any ship or vessel, with intent or in order that such ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of any foreign prince, state, or potentate, or of any foreign colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government in or over any foreign state, colony, province, or part of any province or people, as a transport or store ship, or with intent to cruize or commit hostilities against any prince, state, or potentate, or against the subjects or citizens of any prince, state, or potentate, or against the persons exercising or assuming to exercise the powers of government in any colony, province, or part of any province or country, or against the inhabitants of any foreign colony, province, or part of any province or country, with whom His Majesty shall not then be at war; or shall, within the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's dominions, or in any settlement, colony, territory, island, or place belonging or subject to His Majesty, issue or deliver any commission for any ship or vessel, to the intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court in which such offender shall be convicted; and every such ship or vessel, with the tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition, and stores, which may belong to, or be on board of any such ship or vessel, shall be forfeited; and it shall be lawful for any officer of His Majesty's customs or excise, or any officer of His Majesty's navy, who is by law empowered to make seizures, for any forfeiture incurred under any of the laws of customs or excise, or the laws of trade and navigation, to seize such ships and vessels aforesaid, and in such places and in such manner in which the officers of His Majesty's customs or excise, and the officers of His Majesty's navy are empowered respectively to make seizures under the laws of customs and excise, or under the laws of trade and navigation ; and that every such ship and vessel, with the tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition, and stores which may belong to, or be on board of such ship or vessel, may be prosecuted and condemned, in the like manner and in such Courts as ships or vessels may be prosecuted and condemned, for any breach of the laws made for the protection of the revenues of customs and excise, or of the laws of trade and navigation."

And it is in and by the said Act further enacted :—

"That if any person in any part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, without the leave and licence of His Majesty for that purpose, first had and obtained as aforesaid, shall, by adding to the number of the guns of such vessel, or by changing those on board for other guns, or by the addition of any equipment for war, increase or augment, or procure to be increased or augmented, or shall be knowingly concerned in increasing or augmenting the warlike force of any ship or vessel of war or cruizer, or other armed vessel, which at the time of her arrival in any part of the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's dominions, was a ship of war, cruizer, or armed vessel in the service of any foreign prince, state, or potentate, or of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government in or over any colony, province, or part of any province or people belonging to the subjects of any such prince, state, or potentate, or to the inhabitants of any colony, province, or part of any province or country under the control of any person or persons so exercising or assuming to exercise the powers of government, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court, before which such offender shall be convicted."

Now, in order that none of Our subjects may unwarily render themselves liable to the penalties imposed by the said Statute, We do hereby strictly command that no person or persons whatsoever do commit any act, matter, or thing whatsoever, contrary to the provisions of the said Statute, upon pain of the several penalties by the said Statute imposed, and of Our high displeasure.

And We do hereby further warn all Our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to Our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this Our Royal Proclamation, and of Our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of their duty, as subjects of a neutral Sovereign, in the said contest, or in violation or contravention of the law of nations in that behalf, as for example and more especially by entering into the military service of either of the said contending parties as commissioned or non-commissioned officers or soldiers; or by serving as officers, sailors, or marines on board any ship or vessel of war or transport, of or in the service of either of the said contending parties, or by serving as officers, sailors, or marines on board any privateer bearing letters of marque of or from either of the said contending parties ; or by engaging to go or going to any place beyond the seas, with intent to enlist or engage in any such service ; or by procuring or attempting to procure, within Her Majesty's dominions at home or abroad, others to do so ; or by fitting out, arming, or equipping any ship or vessel to be employed as a ship of war or privateer or transport, by either of the said contending parties ; or by breaking, or endeavouring to break, any blockade lawfully and actually established by or on behalf of either of the said contending parties ; or by carrying officers, soldiers, despatches, arms, military stores or materials, or any article or articles considered and deemed to be contraband of war, according to the law or modern usage of nations, for the use or service of either of the said contending parties, all persons so offending will incur and be liable to the several penalties and penal consequences by the said Statute, or by the law of nations, in that behalf imposed or denounced.

And We do hereby declare that all Our subjects, and persons entitled to Our protection, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and of their own wrong, and that they will in no wise obtain any protection from Us against any liabilities or penal consequences, but will, on the contrary, incur Our high displeasure by such misconduct.

Given at Our Court at Windsor, this twelfth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and in the twenty-ninth year of Our reign.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 16, 1866.

War Office, March 16, 1866.

THE Secretary of State for War has received a Despatch, and its enclosures, from Major-General Chute, Commanding the Troops in New Zealand, of which the following are copies :—

Head Quarter Camp, Putahi,
New Zealand,
January 8, 1866.

My Lord,

IN submitting for your Lordship's information the copy of a report I have transmitted to the Governor of New Zealand, relative to military operations in the Whanganui district during the last few days, I beg to draw your Lordship's attention to the steadiness and gallantry displayed by Her Majesty's troops in the assaults on the two formidable rebel positions of Okotuku and Putahi, conduct which I feel assured your Lordship will consider worthy of the highest commendation.

It is now my intention to proceed to Katemarai, where I am informed the rebels are in force, taking and destroying such pahs as I may find en route ; from thence I purpose marching by the native track at the back of Mount Egmont to Mataitawa, returning viâ New Plymouth, Warea, and Opunaki.

I have, &c.

(Signed) T. CHUTE, Major-General.

The Right Honourable
The Secretary of State for War, War Office, London.

Head Quarters, Camp, Putahi,
SIR, 8th January, 1866.

I HAVE the honour to report, for your Excellency's information, that on the 30th ultimo, the date on which the Colonial Troops, your Excellency had acquainted me would be placed at my disposal, were ready. I left Whanganui with a small field force, and encamped at Alexander's Farm.

On the 31st, the force marched to Wereroa, where we were detained for two days, waiting for the Native Contingent, who, on the 1st January, were employed in capturing horses, the property of rebels, thirty-two of which they secured, and on the 2nd, in preparing some particular food they declared to be absolutely necessary for the march.

On the 3rd instant, the field force, total strength as per margin,* moved across the Waitotara. I directed the Native Contingent to cross at Perikama, beneath and on the right flank of the post at Wereroa; and, with the remainder of the force, I made a diversion through the Waitotara Block, crossing by the ford near the mouth of the river. The contingent having rejoined me on the main inland track, we marched towards Moturou, and encamped about a mile and a half from that village, situated at the edge of dense forest, within which, and about two miles from Moturou, was the strongly fortified and formidable position of Okotuku, which I was informed was considered impregnable by the rebels, and there it was stated they had collected in considerable numbers. During the afternoon of the 3rd instant, the native contingent under Major MacDonnell proceeded to reconnoitre this position, and taking the rebels by surprise entered it without opposition ; a few shots only were fired at them by the enemy's scouts ; having set fire to the whares outside the pah the contingent returned to camp.

On the following morning, having reason to believe that the enemy in considerable force had re-occupied the position they had apparently evacuated the evening before, I marched with the force, as per margin*, to attack the Okotuku pah. The line of march for the last two miles was through dense forest, and the track itself obstructed throughout by ravines, rocks, and supple-jack, rendering the advance most difficult, especially for the skirmishers, whom I had thrown out from the native troops as I entered the forest. At a small clearing overhanging a deep ravine, just before commencing the steepest part of the ascent, the skirmishers were fired upon by the enemy ; I pushed on as rapidly as the excessive badness of the ground would admit of, and soon gained the plateau. This is a narrow tongue of land, of about 20 acres, the greater part being under cultivation. As the troops crowned it they were exposed to a very heavy fire from the pah, distant about 350 yards. I immediately extended the Forest

* 2nd Battalion, 14th Regiment—3 officers, 4 serjeants, 1 drummer, 100 rank and file ; Forest Rangers—2 officers, 33 rank and file ; Native Contingent—3 officers, 200 rank and file. Total—8 officers, 4 serjeants, 1 drummer, 333 rank and file.

Rangers on my extreme left, the 2nd Battalion of the 14th Regiment in the centre, the native troops were on either flank and in reserve. I directed all to keep as much as possible under cover of the many fallen trees about us; advancing in this manner for a short distance the fire became still more severe, and two men were wounded. I ordered the party to advance and endeavour to occupy the pah; when the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment, led by Captain Vivian in the most gallant manner, charged the stockading, succeeded in entering the pah, and in driving the enemy down the almost sharped sides and rear of this defence—formidable by nature, but rendered doubly so by native skill. In this affair I regret to say that Lieutenant Keogh, and four men of the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment, were wounded. The bodies of six natives, killed, were found. It is supposed their loss in killed and wounded amounted to twenty, but, owing to the density of the bush into which they retreated, it was not possible to ascertain their real loss.

When the pah was captured a portion of the Native Contingent entered the bush and endeavoured to pursue the retreating enemy—they succeeded in taking the rebel chief and in killing one man.

The most formidable part of the defence consisted of a pallisade, several feet high and fully three feet thick, made by piling logs of hard wood horizontally between two rows of thick upright stakes, extending a distance of about eighty yards, from one sharped gully to another. So precipitous were the sides and rear, and so dense the forest beneath them, that it was impossible to approach them and cut off the retreat of the enemy. The whole clearing of which this pah formed the stronghold was surrounded by bush, and is situated on one of the high points of the range of mountains running nearly in a north-westerly direction from Wererora. It would be difficult to exaggerate the obstacles opposed to the advance of the troops to such a position, or the spirited manner in which they were overcome by all concerned.

The defences of the pah, whares, &c., having been burnt and completely destroyed, the troops returned to camp.

I am much indebted to Major McDonnell and the native contingent for their services on this occasion.

Dr. Featherston, Superintendent of this Province, who accompanies the Field Force, was present at the assault on Okotuku, and I have every reason to be obliged to him for his assistance on all matters connected with the natives.

Previous to my departure from Wereroa, I sent to the officers commanding at Patea, Manawapow, and Waingongoro, informing them that it was my intention to proceed northward by the inland track —pointing out the probability of the rebels retreating in that direction, and instructing them to patrol the country in the vicinity of the bush near their posts, with the view of intercepting and cutting them off.

Colonel Warre, C.B., Commanding at Taranaki, has also been instructed, if possible, to clear his district of rebels, more particularly in the vicinity of his southern outposts, and to prevent their retreat by Mataitawa, should they take the road at the back of Mount Egmont.

On the 5th January, the Native Contingent desiring rest, the troops were occupied in destroying cultivations.

On the 6th January, the force marched to the Wenuakura River, and encamped on some high land to the southward and front of the rebel stronghold of Putahi. I purposed attacking the pah at once, and had directed 200 men from the Patea to advance on it at the same time from the side next the river, but the only information I was enabled to obtain regarding the tracks to it was so meagre that I was obliged to wait until the following day.

On the evening of the 6th, while reconnoitring the position, a small party of the Native Contingent were fired upon by the enemy's scouts, resulting in a skirmish in which we had one man wounded.

Putahi is situated in a clearing about half a mile in diameter, on the top of a hill rising abruptly on all sides from the river plain to the height of about 500 feet, and covered to the crest with dense bush: the usual approach is from the side on which we are encamped, and was one the rebels evidently anticipated we should attempt, having, as I was informed, erected stockades and other impediments in the bush to assist them in its defence—information which I found to be perfectly correct.

Knowing that by this route the pah could only be taken with a loss of many men, I decided on attacking it in rear; and having succeeded at a late hour on the night of 6th in obtaining the services of a guide with a tolerable knowledge of the country I marched at 3 A.M., on the morning of the 7th, with a force as per margin,* crossed a tributary of the Wenuakura by a bridge constructed the evening before, and passing over a plain of about half a mile, ascended a steep spur which brought us on an isolated plateau lying to the left front of the pah, about two miles distant from it in a direct line; descending this, the march may be described as one continued struggle through a dense primeval forest and bush over ravines and gullies which could in most cases only be ascended and descended by the aid of supplejack and then only with great difficulty, the external distance to be traversed could not have exceeded four miles, but the obstacles and obstructions opposed to us made it a severe task for four hours.

* Royal Artillery—1 officer, 2 serjeants, 28 rank and file; under Lieutenant Carre. 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment—6 officers, 9 serjeants, 3 drummers, 204 rank and file; under Lieutenant-Colonel Trevor. 2nd Battalion 18th Regiment—5 officers, 4 serjeants, 2 drummers, 89 rank and file; under Major Rocke. 50th Regiment—4 officers, 4 serjeants, 2 drummers, 90 rank and file, under Captain C. Johnson. Forest Rangers—2 officers, 2 serjeants, 38 rank and file; under Major Von Tempskey. Native Contingent, &c.—10 officers (including natives), 200 rank and file; under Major McDonnell. Total—28 officers, 21 serjeants, 7 drummers, 649 rank and file.

When we arrived at the clearing the Native Contingent who had led through the bush formed to the left and on the edge of it, the Forest Rangers were opened out in skirmishing order and lying down to cover the formation of the remainder of the force, who as they emerged one by one from the bush were extended with supports, the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment being in the centre, the 2nd Battalion 18th Regiment on the right, and the 50th Regiment on the left, the Native Contingent forming the reserve. The formation occupied more than an hour under a desultory fire from the pah, from which we were then distant about 400 yards, and when complete I gave the order to advance; the rebels now opened a heavy fire, but the line did not charge until they were within 80 yards, when with a cheer and a rush they carried the position, the rebels retreating to the bush beyond, to which I immediately sent the Native Contingent who followed them for some little distance; the whole of the troops behaved admirably and though working through high fern conducted the attack as steadily as on an ordinary parade.

The flagstaff, whares, &c., were all pulled down and burnt, the work of destruction being completed, and the formidable pah of Putahi, hitherto considered impregnable, on account of its inaccessability, being levelled with the ground, I ordered the troops to be marched to camp.

Their loss has probably been very severe, though 16 bodies only were found in and around the pah.

From information I have received, the garrison appears to have consisted of about 200 rebels of the worst character.

I enclose a return of our casualties, by which your Excellency will observe we had one man killed and seven wounded, among the latter, I am sorry to say, is Major McDonnell, who, as usual, was most active and zealous, not only in directing the march through the bush, but in pursuing the rebels in retreat.

Where all have behaved so gallantly it is difficult to select any names for favourable mention, but of the Colonial forces I beg especially to bring to your Excellency's notice Major Von Tempskey, commanding Forest Rangers; Major McDonnell, commanding Native Contingent; as also Ensign McDonnell, of the same force.

I had directed Colonel Weare, C.B., to send 100 men from the Patea to the right bank of the Wenuakura River, and to the right flank of the pah, in order to intercept rebels retreating by the inland route towards Kakaramea. I beg to forward a copy of this officer's report of the proceedings on the occasion.

I have, &c.,

SIR, January 7, 1866.

I HAVE the honor to report, for the information of the Major-General Commanding, that in obeidence to your instructions I marched at two o'clock A.M. this morning with 100 rank and file, for the purpose of laying ambushes between Putahi and Kakaramea.

Two ambushes of 50 rank and file each were laid in the most eligible places, one of which was on a track leading on the edge of the main bush, with which party I was ; five Maories passed this ambush and were fired upon and pursued, one man being taken prisoner, and another badly wounded, who managed to escape with the other three, owing to the density of the bush.

No natives were seen by the other party, nor did any others attempt to escape in the direction of Kakaramea, or "Gentle Annie," as the two ambuscades commanded a view of the whole country about.

I have, &c.

NOTICE is hereby given, that Her Majesty's Birthday will be celebrated on Saturday, the 26th of May next.

SYDNEY, Lord Chamberlain.

Buckingham Palace, March 24, 1866.

THIS day the Archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by the Bishops and Clergy of the Province, waited upon Her Majesty to present the following Address :—

Madam,

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the Province of Canterbury in Convocation assembled, approach your Majesty with the assurance of our loyal and affectionate attachment to your Majesty's Throne and Person.

We, in common with your Majesty's whole loyal people, rejoice, that you have resolved again to open, with the sanction of your august presence, the solemn deliberations of the estates of your realm in Parliament, and we thank God for the strength of body and resolution of mind vouchsafed to your Majesty.

We would express to your Majesty our humble and sincere condolence on the removal by death of your Royal friend and relation, full of years and honours, His late Majesty the King of the Belgians.

We rejoice with your Majesty in the prospect of happiness opening upon another member of your Royal Family, and pray that God may vouchsafe His richest blessings on the approaching marriage of the august Princess.

We open the deliberations, to which your Majesty has summoned us, with a thankful sense of the many blessings which God has graciously bestowed upon your Majesty and the church and people of this realm, with a grave estimate of dangers to be averted, and a hopeful presage of benefits to be secured, through the deliberations, which under your Majesty's Royal writ we are now commencing. We pray your Majesty to protect us in the ancient privileges and liberties of our national church, to form a favourable judgment of our efforts, to allow us from time to time to approach your Throne and address your Majesty on the various matters which may need your Royal sanction; and we pray your Majesty to believe, that trusting to the illumination and guidance of the Holy Spirit of God vouchsafed to His church through Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, we shall address ourselves diligently to the consideration of such matters, either as your Majesty may be pleased specially to refer to us, or as under your Majesty's general licence, we may treat of, for the honour of God and the advancement of His glory, for the faith, peace, and unity of His church, and for the advancement of the prosperity, the education, the liberties, and the piety of the people committed by God to the charge of your most gracious Majesty.

We cannot conclude this address to your Majesty without expressing our sense of the greatness of the calamity which has lately fallen upon the nation through God's visitation in the murrain among cattle, and our sympathy with those who have chiefly suffered from its ravages; and we pray that such wisdom may be vouchsafed to the legislature as may lead to the adoption of measures suitable to the mitigating the pressure of this national calamity

C. T. Cantuar.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer :—

"I receive with much satisfaction the renewed assurance of your loyal and affectionate attachment to My Throne and Person.

"I thank you for your expressions of condolence on the loss I have sustained by the death of My lamented Uncle, His late Majesty the King of the Belgians.

"I accept with sincere gratification your congratulations on the approaching Marriage of My Daughter the Princess Helena.

"I entirely concur in your feelings of sympathy with those who are suffering severely from the effects of the disease among cattle which prevails to so great an extent in many parts of this nation. SECOND SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 30, 1866.

Admiralty, 2nd April, 1866.

HER Majesty, by Her Order in Council of the 24th March, 1866, having been graciously pleased to sanction the following alterations and amendments in the present system of promotion and retirement in the Royal Navy, as provided by Her Majesty's Orders in Council of 1st August, 1860, and 9th July, 1864, the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty hereby give notice of the mode in which such arrangements will be carried into effect :

1. Compulsory retirement to be extended to all the Executive Lists.

2 Admirals to be retired on attaining 70 years of age, or when physically unfit for service.

3. Vice-Admirals to be retired on attaining 68 years of age, or when physically unfit for service.

4. Rear-Admirals to be retired on attaining 65 years of age, or when physically unfit for service.

5. Flag Officers, at present on the Active List, who may be retired under these Regulations, will retain all the privileges of rising in rank and pay to which they are now entitled ; but no Flag Officer who has not hoisted his flag will be considered eligible for the appointments of Vice and Rear-Admirals of the United Kingdom, or for promotion to the rank of Admiral of the Fleet.

6. The Active Flag List to be reduced to 85:—

Admirals of the Fleet and Admirals (But not to be more than three Admirals of the Fleet at one time.)	21
Vice-Admirals	22
Rear-Admirals	42
Total ...	85

This reduction to be made gradually, by only filling up two out of every three vacancies caused by the removal of Flag Officers who accept Greenwich Pensions, and by retirements from age, whether optional or compulsory. Vacancies from all other causes to be filled up as they occur. Vacancies on the List of Flag Officers on Reserved Half-pay in receipt of Service Pensions, and on the List of Flag Officers of Greenwich Hospital, will not be filled up.

7. Flag Officers, at present on the Active List, who have hoisted their Flags, or been employed at the Admiralty since their promotion to Flag Rank are to be allowed to retain their places on the Active List if they should prefer it, but they may be placed on the Retired List at their own request, with the consent of the Admiralty. Officers coming on the Flag List after this date will be subject to compulsory retirement at the ages specified above, whether they have served or not.

8. Captains to be retired on attaining sixty years of age, or when physically unfit for service, on the terms of the Order in Council of the 9th of July, 1864. Those at present on the Active List who, before attaining the age of sixty, shall have served the necessary time to qualify them for promotion to the Active Flag List, are to be allowed to retain their places on the Active List, if they should prefer it; but no Captain will be eligible for promotion to the Active Flag List after sixty years of age, or if physically unfit for service.

9. Officers promoted to the rank of Captain after the date authorized by Her Majesty's Order in Council, to be subjected to compulsory retirement on attaining the age of sixty, whether they have served or not.

10. Captains of sixty years of age, who have served the necessary time to qualify them for promotion to the Active Flag List, and who remain on the Captains List until promoted to Rear-Admiral, to be placed on the Retired List, but will be allowed to rise by seniority to the rank and pay of Vice-Admiral and Admiral respectively. Captains who have served their time, but who retire voluntarily before reaching the top of the List, will not be entitled to rise to higher pay as Flag Officers than twenty-five shillings a day, in accordance with the Order in Council of 9th July, 1864.

11. Captains who have not served their time for Active Flag Rank, and who have been unemployed for ten years, to be retired on the terms of the Order in Council of 9th July, 1864.

12. Captains to be allowed to retire on attaining fifty years of age, with the consent of the Admiralty, on the terms of the Order in Council of 9th July, 1864.

13. The Captains' List to be reduced gradually to 250, by filling up only two out of every three vacancies caused by age-retirements from that list, whether optional or compulsory. Vacancies from all other causes are to be filled up as they occur.

14. Commanders to be retired at the age of 55, or when physically unfit for service, and to be allowed to retire at 50, with the consent of the Admiralty, on the terms of the Order in Council of 9th July, 1864.

15. Lieutenants to be retired at 55, or when physically unfit for service, and to be allowed to retire at 45, with the consent of the Admiralty, on the terms of the Order in Council of 9th July, 1864.

16. Time served by Naval officers in future retiring from Civil employments connected with the Navy, which does not entitle them to Civil superannuation, to be allowed to reckon towards increase of half or retired pay, in the proportion of one year for every two served in that capacity. In the case of Captains, twelve years served in such Civil capacity will entitle an officer to rise to the higher rates of retired pay of Vice-Admiral and Admiral respectively.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 13, 1866.

Windsor Castle, April 9, 1866.

THIS day the following Address from the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of New Windsor, was handed by the Mayor to Her Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously :—

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the loyal and ancient borough of New Windsor, have ventured to approach your Majesty, for the purpose of expressing our heartfelt sorrow at the loss your Majesty has sustained by the lamented decease of Leopold, King of the Belgians, who was connected with your Royal House by so many ties of kindred and friendship.

We cannot but feel that by the death of King Leopold your Majesty has lost a wise, experienced, and faithful counsellor, your people a friend, who was always deeply interested in their welfare and happiness, and the world a Sovereign who by his wisdom, sagacity, and singleness of purpose, secured universal confidence, and became the great arbitrator and peacemaker between contending nations.

We humbly pray that your Majesty may in all your losses and trials be sustained and comforted by the Divine favour.

Given under the Common Seal of the said Borough, at a Meeting of the Council thereof, held on the 22nd day of December, 1865.

John Jones, Mayor.

At the Court at Windsor, the 12th day of March, 1866.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the 25th year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to enable Her Majesty "to issue Commissions to the Officers of Her Ma- "jesty's Land Forces and Royal Marines, and to "Adjutants and Quartermasters of the Militia and "Volunteer Forces without affixing Her Royal "sign-manual thereto," after setting forth therein that every officer appointed or promoted by Her Majesty in Her Land Forces or Marines, and every Adjutant or Quartermaster in Her Militia or Volunteer Forces, receives a Commission from Her Majesty with Her Royal sign-manual thereon, and that it was expedient to regulate from time to time the mode of authenticating the said Commissions granted by Her Majesty, it was enacted, that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, from time to time, as occasion might require, to direct that all or any Commissions for officers prepared or to be prepared under the authority of Her Majesty's Royal sign-manual might be afterwards issued without Her Royal sign-manual, but having thereon, in the case of Her Majesty's Land Forces, except as thereafter mentioned, the signatures of the Commander-in-Chief or the General Commanding-in-Chief, and of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and in the case of the Royal Marines, of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and in the case of Military Chaplains, Commissariat and Store Officers, and of Adjutants and Quartermasters in the Militia and Volunteer Forces, of one of Her Majesty's said Principal Secretaries; and that every such Commission issued and signed in pursuance of such Order in Council should be conclusive evidence that the officer named in any such Commission had been appointed or promoted by Her Majesty to the rank or office named therein:

And whereas by an Order in Council, bearing date the seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, directions were given as to the issuing and signing of certain Commissions being other Commissions than such as are mentioned and referred to in this present Order:

And whereas Her Majesty hath declared Her will and pleasure that any first Commissions which at the date of this Order have been authorized under Her Majesty's Royal sign-manual, but have not been signed by Her Majesty, shall be issued and signed under the provisions of this Order :

Now, therefore, in further pursuance of the above-recited Act, and in execution of the power thereby in Her Majesty in Council vested, Her Majesty is pleased, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and doth hereby order—

1. That where, prior to the date of this Order, any person has been first appointed to an office in Her Majesty's Land Forces or Marines under Her Majesty's Royal sign-manual, but no Commission has been issued to him signed by Her Majesty, then that a Commission shall be issued to every such person so appointed as aforesaid signed in manner following, that is to say :—in any case of first appointment to Her Majesty's Land Forces (except as in this clause after mentioned) by the Commander-in-Chief, or the Field-Marshal, or General Commanding-in-Chief, and by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and in any case of first appointment to the Royal Marines by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Admiralty, and in any case of first appointment as Military Chaplain, or Commissariat, or Store Officer by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

2. That this Order shall not prejudice or affect the said recited Order, nor shall this Order, or anything contained therein, be construed to prevent Her Majesty from signing any Commission, or to prevent any Commission so signed from having the same validity and effect as if this Order had not been made.

And the Right Honourable the Marquis of Hartington, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to given the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Arthur Helps.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, April 23, 1866.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs copies of a Public Act and its Annexes, signed at Galatz by the European Commission of the Danube on the 2nd November last, and of which, together with the Protocol relating to it, the following is a translation :—

PROTOCOL.

Conference of 1866.—Sitting of 28*th March.*

PRESENT : The Plenipotentiaries of Austria, France, Great Britain, Italy, Prussia, Russia, and Turkey.
The Secretary of the Conference.

THE European Commission, constituted in accordance with Art. 16 of the Treaty signed at Paris on the 30th March, 1856, having effected the improvement of the navigation of the Lower Danube, by means of certain important works which they have caused to be executed, and having provided regulations for the different services attached thereto, the Plenipotentiaries have accorded to their Delegates in the said Commission full powers to determine, by an international Act, the duties and obligations arising under existing circumstances.

In consequence, a Public Act was signed by them at Galatz on the 2nd November, 1865, on eight originals, of which one has been deposited with the Archives of the European Commission, and the others despatched by the Commissioners to their respective Governments.

The French Plenipotentiary presented to the Conference one of the originals of the Public Act.

After consideration of this Act, and of the two Annexes A and B, which form an integral portion of it, and of the Arrangement relating to the sums advanced by the Sublime Porte to the European Commission, which also forms a portion, the Conference gives its consent and sanction to the provisions which the Act contains.

It is agreed at the same time, in order to amend an accidental omission, that Article 5 of the Regulation of the 21 November, 1864 (Annexe A.), shall be as follows :—

"Merchant Captains of whatever nationality, are required to observe the orders given to them in virtue of the present Regulations, whether by the Inspector-General or by the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

"They are equally bound to declare to them, if demanded, their names, nationality, and the names of their vessel, and to produce their ship's roll, without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 10, 17, and 65, which follow."

A special instruction, issued by the European Commission, regulates in detail, the functions of these two agents.

It is, moreover, agreed that in the first sections of the Article 98 of the same Regulation, the word "Article 4" shall be replaced by the word "Article 5."

Each of the contracting parties, in officially making known the Public Act and its Annexes, will have regard to the preceding modifications.

The present Protocol has been drawn up, and signed in original in duplicate: one copy, as in the case of the other Protocols, shall remain attached to the Acts of the Conference; the other has been officially presented to the Plenipotentiary of His Majesty the Sultan, and shall be by the said Plenipotentiary forwarded to Constantinople to be used as, and to take the place of, the European Ratification provided for by Article 22 of the Public Act.

The undersigned Commissioners, after referring to the Protocol closed on the 2nd December, 1861 (No. CXL), and to the Protocol of the sitting of the 17th October, 1862 (No. CXLIX), have definitively decided, on the basis of instructions which each of them had received from his Government, upon the text of the project of Convention with respect to the navigation of the mouths of the Danube, which has been the object of a common agreement in the preceding negotiations.

After which they read the Act in question, together with its two Annexes, that is to say:—

FINAL PROTOCOL.

Sitting of the 22nd November, 1865.

PRESENT.

For Austria .	M. le Chevalier de Kremer
„ France .	M. Engelhardt.
„ Great Britain	Mr. Stokes.
„ Italy . .	M. le Chevalier Strambio.
„ Prussia .	M. Saint-Pierre.
„ Russia .	M. le Baron d'Offenberg.
„ Turkey .	Ahmet Rassim Pacha.

The undersigned Commissioners have collated upon the documents initialled at the sitting of the 26th October last:—

1st. The Public Act or principal instrument of the Convention relative to the navigation of the mouths of the Danube.

2nd. The regulation of Navigation and Police (Annexe A).

And 3rd, The tariff of Navigation Dues (Annexe B).

These different Acts have been found to be in good and due form.

With respect to the 9th Article of the Public Act, the Delegates of Austria, France, Great Britain, Italy, Prussia, and Russia, have collectively declared, in virtue of special instructions, that, that while they recognise in the agents charged with the riverain police of the Lower Danube, those Powers which are conferred upon them by the regulation of Navigation and Police, annexed to the said Public Act, they consider them, nevertheless, as acting under the direction of the European Commission, and as invested with an international character.

It has been decided that the insertion of this declaration should not imply any consecration in perpetuity of this principle on the part of the Sublime Porte, nor prejudice in the slightest degree, the right of the Riverain States, or affect the principles established by the Congress of Paris.

It has been moreover observed, with respect to Article 17 of the said Act, that, previously to the framing of the first project which was the object of the Governments interested, the European Commission had erected and maintained a lighthouse at he St. George's Mouth at its own expense; hat, in consequence, the clause of the Article refered to, which provides that a portion representing the lighthouse dues out of the total of the taxe levied at Soulina, shall belong to the Administraon générale des Phares de l'Empire Ottomane, should be subject to this reservation, that the payments to be made to the said Administration shall not include any sums other than thoseactually deducted in its favour; and that the European Commission shall continue, as formerly, t retain the amount of the special tax imposed on vessels for the maintenance and lighting of St. George's Light.

At the moment of proceeding to the signature of the Public Act, the Delegate of Turkey, in his capacity of President of the European Commission, observed that this Act, having for its object interests essentially commercial, should have the effect of facilitating the reciprocal relations of the different States, without prejudicing in any way, from a political point of view, the attitude of the respective Governments towards each other.

The Commissioners then affixed their signatures and the seal of their arms to the Public Act relative to the navigation of the Danube, with its two Annexes.

After which they proceeded to sign the arrangement with respect to the repayment of the advances made to the Commission by the Sublime Porte for the improvement of the navigation at the Danube Mouths, the project of which is annexed to the Protocol No. CXL (No. III). This Act was signed in two original, one of which is attached to the present Protocol.

It was thereupon observed that the arrangement in question includes only the advances and payments made by the Sublime Porte previously to the 2nd of December, 1861, and that since that date the Imperial Ottoman Government has paid to the European Commission, on the 31st December, 1863, a sum of eleven thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven ducats, which sum should be repaid by the Commission over and above the annuities stipulated for the liquidation of the principal debt to the Sublime Porte.

The present Protocol, drawn up in eight originals, one of which will remain in the Archives of the Commission, has been read, approved, and signed by the Commissioners.

Done at Galatz on the 2nd of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

A European Commission having been appointed by Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris of the 30th of March, 1856, for the purpose of putting that portion of the Danube below Isaktcha, its mouths, and the parts adjacent to the sea, in the best conditions for navigation;

And the said Commission, acting in virtue of this order, having succeeded, after nine years activity, in effecting important improvements in the system of navigation, more especially by the construction of two dams at the mouth of the Soulina arm, which have had the effect of opening this mouth to vessels of considerable draught; by the execution of works of improvement and cleansing the same arm, by the removal of the wrecked vessels, and by the establishment of a system of buoys; by the construction of a light-house at the St. George's Mouth; by the institution of a regular salvage service, and the creation of a marine hospital at Soulina; and, finally, by the provisional regulation of the different services of navigation on the riverain section lying between Isaktcha and the sea;

The Powers who signed the said Treaty concluded at Paris on the 30th March, 1856, desiring to record that the European Commission, in thus eompleting a portion of its task, has acted in conformity with their intentions, and wishing also to establish by a Publie Act the duties and obligations whieh the new arrangements have given rise to for those interested, and especially for all the shipping navigating the river, have named as their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:

And His Majesty the Sultan, Ahmet Rassim Pacha, Functionary of the rank of Mirimiran, His Governor for the Province of Toultcha, decorated with the Imperial Order of the Medjidie of the Third Class;

Who, after having communicated to each other their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following dispositions:—

TITLE I.

Regulations relative to the material conditions of Navigation.

Art 1.

All works and establishments created in execution of Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris, of the 30th March, 1856, with their accessories and dependencies, shall continue to be applied exclusively to the use of the Danube Navigation, and can never be diverted from this destination upon any pretence whatever; on this score they are placed under the security and safeguard of international law. The European Commission of the Danube, or the Authority succeeding to it in law, shall rest charged, to the exclusion of all interference whatever, with the administration of these works and establishments to the profit of navigation, with the care of their preservation and maintenance, and with the duty of giving them all the development that the necessities of navigation may require.

Art. 2.

Shall be specially reserved to the European Commission, or to the Authority which shall succeed it, the right of designating and causing to be executed all works which shall be judged necessary, in the event of its being considered desirable to render permanent the improvements, up to the present time provisional, of the arm and mouth of Soulina, and of prolonging the damming of that mouth, as the state of the channel may require.

Art. 3.

It shall remain reserved to the said European Commission to undertake the improvement of the mouth and arm of St. George, delayed by common consent, and, for the present, simply adjourned.

Art. 4.

The Sublime Porte engages, in the future, as formerly, to give to the Commission, or to the Authority which shall succeed to it, all the aid and assistance which one or the other may need, for the execution of the works of art, and generally for all that concerns the accomplishment of its task. It will take care that the banks of the Danube, from Isaktcha to the sea, remain free from all buildings, or other obstacles, and it will continue, under the limitation of the annual payments to which landed property is subjected in Turkey, to leave to the disposition of the Commission in the port of Soulina, the left bank, starting from the base of the Northern dike for a distance of seven hundred and sixty metres up the river, and for a breadth of one hundred and fifty metres from the bank.

It consents, moreover, to concede a convenient site, on the right bank, for the constructions which the said Commission, or the Authority succeeding to it, may judge it expedient to erect for the service of the port of Soulina, for the marine hospital, and for the other necessities of the Administration.

Art. 5.

In the case in which the European Commission shall make use of the reservation mentioned in Article 2 touching the amelioration of the mouth and arm of St. George, the Sublime Porte consents that the said Commission may dispose, as soon as the need shall arise, of the lands and sites belonging to the domain of the State which shall have been previously indicated and declared to be necessary both for the construction of works and for the formation of establishments which may be created in consequence of, or as complementary to, such improvements.

Art. 6.

It is understood that there shall not be constructed, on either bank of the river, in the ports of Soulina and St. George, whether by the territorial Authority, or by Companies and Societies of Commerce and Navigation, or by individuals, any wharves, quays, or other structures of a like nature, unless the plans have been communicated to the European Commission, and have been recognised to be in conformity with the general project for quays, and as in no way prejudicing the works of improvements.

TITLE II.

Regulations relative to the administration of Navigation.

Of Regulations in General.

Art. 7.

The navigation at the mouths of the Danube is regulated by the "Regulation for Navigation and Police," made by the European Commission on this day's date, and affixed to the present Act, under the letter A, in order that it may have the same force and value as if it formed an integral part of it.

It is understood that this regulation is law, not only as concerns the riverain police, but also in the judgment of civil disputes arising from questions of navigation.

Art. 8.

The exercise of navigation on the Lower Danube is placed under the control and superintendence of the Inspector-General of the Lower Danube, and the Captains of the Port of Soulina.

These two Agents, appointed by the Sublime Porte, should act in conformity with the Regulation, the application of which is entrusted to them, and for the strict observation of which they will take oath. Sentences emanating from their authority are pronounced in the name of His Majesty the Sultan.

In cases where the European Commission, or the permanent Riverain Commission, shall have established an offence or contravention committed by either of the said Agents against the Regulation of Navigation and Police, it shall demand his dismissal by the Sublime Porte.

If the Sublime Porte judges it necessary to proceed to a fresh inquiry into the facts already established by the Commission, the Commission shall have the right of assisting at such enquiry by means of a delegate, and when the culpability of the accused shall have been duly proved, the Sublime Porte shall, without delay, take steps to replace him.

Excepting in the case foreseen, by the preceding paragraph, the Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Soulina can not be removed from their respective posts except at their own request, or by result of an agreement between the Sublime Porte and the European Commission.

These agents will, therefore, one and the other, act under the control of the European Commission.

The Inspector-General, the Captains of the Ports of Soulina and Toultcha, together with the Overseers (acting under the Inspector-General) shall be remunerated by the Sublime Porte.

They shall be chosen from qualified persons.

Art. 9.

In virtue of the principles of the Act of the Congress of Vienna, established by Article 15 of the Treaty of Paris, the authority of the Inspector-General, and of the Captain of the Port of Soulina is exercised with respect to all flags indiscriminately.

The Inspector-General is specially charged with the police of the river below Isaktcha, the Port of Soulina excluded; he is assisted by Overseers distributed over the riverain sections under his jurisdiction.

The Captain of the Port of Soulina is charged with the police of the port and of the external harbour of Soulina.

A speeial instruetion, framed by eommon eonsent, regulates in detail, the duties of the Inspector-General, and of the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

Art. 10.

Captains of merehant vessels, of whatever nationality, are bound to observe the orders given to them, in virtue of the Regulation of Navigation and Police, by the Inspeetor-General, and by the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

Art. 11.

The exeeution of the Regulation of Navigation and Police, as well as the application of the tariff hereafter mentioned in Artiele 13, and the following Articles of the present Aet, is moreover ensured by the aetion of the vessels of war stationed at the mouths of the Danube, conformably to the 19th Article of the Treaty of Paris.

Eaeh naval station deals with the vessels of its nationality, or upon those earrying flags it may be required to proteet, either in virtue of Treaty or eustom, or in pursuance of general or speeial delegation.

In default of a vessel of war, having power to intcrfere, the International authorities on the river may have recourse to the war vessels of the territorial power.

Art. 12.

It is understood that the Regulation of Navigation and Poliee attaehed to the present Aet, shall continue in effeet up to the moment when the regulations foreseen by Article 17 of the Treaty of Paris shall have been established by eommon consent, and put into foree.

It shall be the same with the provisions of the above Articles 8, 9, and 10, in so far as they eoneern the duties of the Inspector-General.

Of the Tariff of Navigation Dues.

Art. 13.

Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris having conferred upon the European Commission the power of imposing upon navigation a tax at a rate sufficient to cover the expenses of the above-mentioned works and establishments: and the Commission having exercised this power in fixing the Tariff of the 25th July, 1860 (revised the 7th March 1863), the amounts of which have produced the resources necessary for the completion of the Soulina works, it is expressly provided by the present Act, that the abovementioned Tariff, the provisions of which have been recently completed, shall for the future be obligatory.

With this view the Tariff in question has been added to the present Act under the letter B, in order to give it the same force and value as if it formed an integral part of it.

Art. 14.

The product of the tax shall be appropriated:—

1st. By priority and preference to the repayment of the loans contracted by the European Commission, and of those it may contract in future for the completion of the works for the improvement of the mouths of the Danube.

2ndly. To cover the expenses of the administration and the maintenance of the works and establishments.

3rdly. To the repayment of the advances made to the Commission by the Sublime Porte; this liquidation shall take place conformably to the specially concluded arrangements of this day's date, between the European Commission and the Delegates of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan.

The surplus, if any, shall be held in reserve to meet the expenses which may result from the prolongation of the Soulina Dykes, or the execution of such other works as the European Commission or the Authority succeeding it, may afterwards judge desirable.

It is expressly understood, moreover, that no part of the sums produced by the taxes levied on vessels, or of the loans realised by the appropriation of these taxes, can be employed to cover the expenses of works or administration applicable to a riverain section lying above Isaktcha.

Art. 15.

At the expiration of every delay of five years, and with the view of diminishing, as far as possible, the charges imposed on navigation, the delegates of the Powers who have established the above-named tariff shall proceed to a revision of its provisions, and the amount of the taxes shall be reduced as much as possible, care being taken to preserve the mean revenue judged necessary.

Art. 16.

The mode of collecting the tax, and the administration of the navigation Treasury at Soulina, shall continue to be regulated by the provisions at present in force.

The Accountant charged with the collection shall be named, unanimously, by the European Commission, or by the authority succeeding it, and shall act directly under its orders.

The general control of the operations of the Treasury shall be vested in an officer to be named by the Ottoman Government.

There shall be published annually, in the official journals of the different Powers interested, a detailed balance-sheet of the operations of the Navigation Treasury as well as a statement shewing the apportionment and employment of the produce of the tariff.

Art. 17.

The Administration Générale of the lighthouses of the Ottoman Empire having undertaken to provide the lighting, administration, and maintenance expenses for those lights forming the lighthouse system at the mouths of the Danube, the portion representing the lighthouse dues in the total of taxes levied at Soulina shall be paid into the hands of the said administration; but it is understood that these duties can only be applied as regards existing lights, and those which it may be judged necessary to establish later, to cover actual expenses.

Quarantine.

Art. 18.

The sanitary regulations applicable to the mouths of the Danube will continue to be controlled by the Superior Council of Health instituted at Constantinople, and in which the different foreign missions accredited to the Sublime Porte are represented by delegates.

These regulations shall be conceived in such a manner as to reconcile, within just limits, the necessary sanitary precautions with the interests of commerce, and they shall be based, as far as practicable, upon the principles determined in the Articles 19 and 20 hereafter following.

Art. 19.

Vessels descending the Danube shall be exempt from all sanitary control; the same shall apply to vessels coming from the sea, so long as no epidemie prevails in the east; these vessels shall simply be required to exhibit their bills of health to the authorities of the ports where they anchor.

Art. 20.

Should a plague-epidemie break out in the East and if it is judged neeessary to apply sanitary measures to the lower Danube, the quarantine of Soulina may be re-established; in this ease vessels coming from sea shall be subjeeted at Soulina to the quarantine arrangements, and if the epidemic has not invaded the provinees of Turkey in Europe they cannot be further subjeeted to sanitary measures in aseending the river.

But if, on the contrary, the epidemic invades one or more of the Riverain Provinces of the Danube, quarantine stations shall be established wherever the necessity may arise, on that part of the river which traverses the territory of Turkey.

TITLE III.

Neutrality.

Art. 21.

The works and establishments of every kind created by the European Commission, or by the authority sueceeding to it, in exeeution of the 16th Article of the Treaty of Paris, notably the Navigation Treasury at Soulina, and those that it may create in the future, shall enjoy the neutrality stipulated in Artiele 11 of the said Treaty, and shall, in ease of war, be equally respeeted by all belligerents.

The privilege of this neutrality shall extend, with the obligations resulting from it, to the Inspection Générale de Navigation, to the administration of the port of Soulina, to the staff of the Navigation Treasury, and the Marine Hospital, and finally to the professional staff charged with the superintendence of works.

Art. 22.

The present Act shall be ratified; each of the High Contracting Parties shall ratify on a single copy, and the ratifications shall be deposited within two months, or, if possible, sooner, at the Chancellerie of the Imperial Divan, at Constantinople.

In earnest of which the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed it, and affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Art. 1.

PUBLIC ACT Relative to the Navigation of the mouths of the Danube.

ANNEXE A.

REGULATION OF NAVIGATION AND POLICE RELATIVE TO THE LOWER DANUBE.

General Provisions.

Art. 1.

The navigation of the Lower Danube below Isaktcha is placed under the control of the Inspector-General of the Navigation of the Lower Danube, and the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

Both of these agents act under the superintendence of the European Commission of the Danube, and their authority is exercised with regard to all vessels without exception.

Art. 2.

The execution of the regulations applicable to the Lower Danube is likewise insured by the action of the vessels of war stationed at the mouths in accordance with Article 19 of the Treaty of Paris.

Every naval station deals with the vessels of its nationality, and those whose flag it is bound to protect, whether by virtue of Treaty or custom, or by general or special delegation.

In default of a vessel of war having power to interfere, the authorities charged with the police of the river may have recourse to the vessels of the territorial power.

Art. 3.

The Inspector-General is specially charged with the police of the Lower Danube, exclusive of the Port of Soulina.

He is assisted by several Overseers, distributed over the riverain sections under his jurisdiction.

Art. 4.

The Captain of the Port of Soulina is charged with the police of the port and external roadstead of Soulina.

Art. 5.

Merchant Captains of whatever nationality are bound to comply with the orders given to them, in virtue of the present Regulation, by the Inspector-General, and by the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

A special instruction, emanating from the European Commission regulates in its details the action of these two agents.

They are equally bound to declare to them, if demanded, their names, nationality, and the names of their vessel, and to produce to them their ship's roll, without prejudice to the provisions of Arts. 10, 17, and 65, which follow.

Art. 6.

Independently of the judicial functions which they perform in the cases foreseen by Article 79 and 107 of the present Regulation, the Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port decide summarily in disputes between Captains and their crews, assisted in such cases by two Captains of the nationality of the litigants, or, in default of these, by two other Captains. This authority is not exercised, however, until one of the interested parties has demanded their intervention, and when a more competent authority is not at hand.

TITLE I.

Of the Police of the Roadstead Port and of Soulina.

Chapter I.

Of the Police of the Roadstead of Soulina.

Art. 7.

The Roadstead of Soulina comprehends the waters of the sea for a radius of two nautical miles around the head of the Northern dyke.

Art. 8.

Every vessel arriving from sea and entering the Soulina roadstead is required to hoist its national flag.

Art. 9

If it remains in harbour to take in or discharge cargo, it is nevertheless subject to the orders of the Captain of the port and of his agents in all that concerns the police of the navigation.

It has especially to conform to the provisions of the present Regulation comprised under Title V, relating to the lighter service.

Art. 10.

It must anchor in the place indicated by the chief or sub-chief of the pilots of Soulina, after which the Captain or second officer should present himself within twenty-four hours at the office of the Captain of the port, for the purpose of depositing the vessel's papers.

Art. 11.

The boats of vessels anchored in the roadstead are not permitted to circulate in the channel and port without carrying a light.

Chapter II.

Of the Police of the Port of Soulina.

Art. 12.

The port of Soulina comprehends the Soulina arm for a distance of three nautical miles from the opening of the channel formed by the heads of the dykes at the mouth.

Art. 13.

No sailing or steam-vessel drawing more than 60 tons can clear the Soulina channel either when arriving from sea or when leaving the river, without having on board a pilot certificated by the local authorities.

This provision, however, does not apply to steam vessels making periodical voyages, which are at liberty to employ their own pilots.

The pilotage service is regulated by special provisions contained in Title IV of the present Regulation.

Art. 14.

No vessel can enter or clear the port of Soulina without hoisting its national flag.

The authorities of the port do not permit passage to vessels without flags.

Art. 15.

In cases when, by reason of stormy weather the Soulina channel is judged impassable by the Captain of the port, a blue flag is hoisted on the lighthouse tower to give notice that the local pilots are unable to come into the roadstead.

Art. 16.

Two guard-boats lie at the two entries of the port.

Captains drop anchor at the spots indicated by the masters of these boats.

Art. 17.

They afterwards present themselves, within the twenty-four hours, at the office of the Captain of the port to produce their ship's papers.

They are at the same time bound, (Captains of steam vessels engaged in the postal service and making periodical journeys excepted), to present their papers to the Accountant of the Navigation Treasury of Soulina, who places on the ship's roll of every vessel entering the Danube, of whatever capacity, a stamp bearing these words :—" Commission Européenne du Danube. Caisse de navigation de Soulina," the date of the year, and a number. This stamp is cancelled before the clearance of the vessel by means of the impression of a stamped signature.

If the vessels do not remain more than twenty-four hours at Soulina, the ship's papers are immediately returned to the Captains after the completion of the prescribed formalities; in the contrary case they remain at the office of the Captain of the port, by whom they are transmitted, if necesssary, to the competent Consular authority, after payment of the navigation dues and the discharge or consignment of fines levied in virtue of the present regulation; excepting under these circumstances the ship's papers should always remain on board.

Art. 18.

When once at anchor, vessels moor themselves by means of cables to the posts placed along the banks for this purpose, or to vessels already anchored.

Art. 19.

They rig in their jib boom and fore booms, which cannot in any case be used for mooring small craft.

During all the period of anchorage the yards are braced fore and aft.

Art. 20.

Lighters and vessels coasting close in shore are not permitted to circulate in the port at night time.

The boats of the port or of merchant vessels cannot change their position at night time without carrying a lighted lantern.

Art. 21.

The heating of pitch or tar on board vessels within the port is not permitted.

Captains will take care that on board their vessels no other lights than lamps with glasses, or lanterns, are used.

Chapter III.

Provisions common to the Roadstead and the Port of Soulina.

Art. 22.

Art. 64 of the present regulation which forbids the throwing overboard of ballast except at the spots designated for the purpose, applies especially to the roadstead and to the port of Soulina properly so called.

Art. 23.

The removal of anchors, chains and other objects abandoned in the port and the external roadstead cannot take place without the permission of the Captain of the Port.

Art. 24.

In cases of stranding, shipwreck or casualty, the Captain of the Port makes every effort to insure the preservation of the cargo, vessel, and gear, and to protect the general interests of navigation.

This done, he divests himself of the administration of the salvage, and forwards the documents drawn up by him to the nearest competent authority.

TITLE II.

Of the Police of the River.

Chapter I.

General Rule.

Every captain or master of a steam or sailing vessel, moving or stationary, anchored, or moored to the shore, is bound to take care that his vessel causes no hindrance to navigation, nor any injury, either to other vessels, or to the landing places, buoys, signals, towing paths, or other arrangements for navigation placed on the river or shores, and he should at the same time take steps to preserve himself.

Vessels navigating or stationed in the Soulina arm are required to carry their anchors swung freely at the cat-heads without attaching them at the ship's side.

The conductors of floats and rafts are subjected to the same precautionary regulations as vessels. Rafts and floats when they descend the Soulina arm, must have a draught of water less by one English foot, at least, than the depth of the shallowest of the shoals of the said arm. In no case are they permitted to draw more than twelve English feet.

Chapter II.

Regulations for Vessels Crossing or Passing each other.

Art. 26.

As a general rule it is forbidden for one vessel to pass another going in the same direction, and for two vessels advancing towards each other to cross at any point where the river is not sufficiently broad.

Art. 27.

No vessel may cross the course of another in such a manner as to check its progress.

When a vessel going up the river encounters another descending it, at a point where the breadth is insufficient, it should stop below the passage until the other vessel has traversed it; if the vessel going up the river is already in occupation of the passage, the descending vessel is required to let go the anchor, which should always be carried astern, and to remain above until the road is free.

Art. 28.

Steam vessels in the narrower passages may not approach to within short distances of the vessel preceding them.

Art. 29.

When two steam vessels, or two sailing vessels with a fair wind, meet going in contrary directions, the one ascending the river should bear to the left, and the one descending it to the right, which will bring them starboard of each other, as is the custom at sea. The same takes place when a steam vessel meets a sailing vessel with a fair wind.

The Captain or Master who transgresses these rules should prove in case of collisions that it was not possible to observe them; in default of this he is responsible before the competent tribunal for the accidents resulting therefrom.

He is, besides, bound to make the signals prescribed by Articles 31 and 32 which follow.

If two steam vessels make simultaneously the same signal, that of the descending vessel shall be held as rule.

Art. 30.

When two steam vessels going contrary ways arrive at a bend in the river they should show the signals prescribed by Articles 31 and 32, hereafter, and the one which is below stops until the other vessel has cleared the passage.

Art. 31.

When a steam vessel desires to precede another vessel going in the same direction, it gives notice of its intention before getting to a short distance from the other vessel, by striking a bell or whistling, five times, and waving a hand-flag from the forecastle, or by hoisting a flag half-mast during the day, or a lighted lantern with a white glass during the night, upon these signals, the foremost vessel proceeds to the left, leaving the passage to the vessel following, which proceeds to the right; as soon as the latter arrives to within half a ship's length of the former or of the vessel towed by it, it should slacken speed until it has been passed.

Art. 32.

When a sailing vessel of superior speed catches up another vessel, and desires to pass it, it gives signal of its intention by hailing its forerunner, who is bound to permit it to go to windward.

If a steam vessel wishes to pass a sailing vessel going in the same direction as its own, it gives the signals prescribed by Article 31 before arriving to within a short distance of the vessel in advance, and goes to windward of it.

Art. 33.

Steam-vessels descending the river should slacken speed at points where there are sharp bends, until from the vessel's stern the eye can command the passage. If vessels occupy the bend, the steamer gives notice of its approach by a whistle signal.

Art. 34.

All steamers are bound to avoid drifting vessels, whether they meet them in mounting or descending the river.

The drifting vessel should, on its side, when it meets other vessels, sailing or steaming, keep parallel to the banks, so as to present the least obstacle to the passage.

Art. 35.

Vessels tacking should take precautions so as not to cross the course of steam vessels.

Art. 36.

Captains and masters of heavy laden vessels, or of laden vessels under sixty tons, are bound to avoid as much as possible the route taken by steamers which meet or overtake them.

Captains of steam-vessels, on their side, when they pass vessels such as those designated above, should slacken speed, or stop completely in cases where the said vessels are endangered, provided always that they can do so without danger to themselves or to the vessels which they have in tow.

Art. 37.

In conforming to the Rules 26 to 36 which precede the present, vessels should have regard to the dangers of the navigation, and take into consideration those particular circumstances which may justify a departure from them in order to guard against a more immediate danger.

Chapter III.

Rules for the Towing Service.

Captains or masters of towing-boats, with or without convoys, are required to observe all the preceding provisions, and especially the rules prescribed by Articles 31, 32, and 33, when one convoy is desirous of passing another; except in this case, no convoys can ever be side by side, either when moored or when proceeding on their voyage.

In cases of meeting with sailing or steam vessels proceeding in a contrary direction, the tow-vessel, if it is mounting the river, has the power of disregarding the prescriptions of Article 29 in order to keep itself out of the current, if it can do so without danger to the vessels which it meets

The tow-vessel is bound, if it avails itself of this power, to make the signals prescribed by the foregoing Articles 31 and 32.

Art. 39.

As a general rule all steam-vessels not towing convoys, as well as all sailing vessels under a fair wind, should give place to a convoy of towed vessels. In default of space sufficient to effect this, the captains and masters, as well of the tow as the vessels towed, are bound, even in cases where the prescribed signals have not been made, to deviate in accordance with the provisions of the said Articles, and to arrange in one line the vessels tugged.

Captains and masters of tow-boats and vessels towed should besides, wherever they meet other vessels, bring the vessels forming the convoy as near as possible to each other, so as to leave sufficient room for the other craft.

Paddle tugs may not moor alongside any vessels that they tug in the Soulina Channel.

It is forbidden, as a general rule, to navigate in this arm with more than two vessels moored side to side.

Chapter IV.

Rules for Towing.

Art. 40.

The path which runs along the bank of the river is specially destined for the towing of vessels either by men or animals of draught: pedestrians and carriages may also use it.

Art. 41.

The towing-path should be free from all obstacles which hinder its use, as bushes, trees, enclosures, houses, or other constructions.

Art. 42.

It is prohibited to establish in the river, and especially near the banks, mills, or boats, irrigation wheels, and other similar constructions without the formal sanction of the authority directing the River Police.

Art. 43.

It is expressly forbidden to dig ditches across the towing path, unless the river proprietor undertakes to establish to maintain the communication by means of a bridge.

Art. 44.

Mooring-posts having been established along the Soulina, Captains and Masters will avoid fixing stakes or fastening anchors on the towing paths for mooring their vessels.

Art. 45.

If two vessels whilst being towed in opposite directions meet on the same bank, the vessel going up-stream must give way to enable the other vessel to pass.

If a vessel towed by animals should overtake a train of vessels towed by men, the latter must allow the former to pass.

In the case where a vessel being towed meets another moored in the river, the Captain of the latter is bound to permit the sailors of the towed vessel to get on board his ship to pass the tow-rope.

Art. 46.

It is forbidden to pass tow-boats unless on the opposite bank to that on which the towing is performed.

Towed boats are required in conformity with the signals prescribed by the above Articles 31 and 32, to keep as close as possible to the bank which they skirt.

Chapter V.

Rules for Navigating the River during the night or in foggy weather.

Art. 47.

Every steam-boat navigating during the night (between the rising and setting of the sun) is required to show a white light, easily visible at the distance of at least two miles, hoisted at the top of the foremast, a green light on the starboard side, and a red light on the port side.

The side lights must be provided on board, with screens placed from back to front, in such a manner that the green light cannot be perceived on the port quarter, nor the red light on the starboard quarter.

Sailing vessels under sail, or being towed, must carry the same lights as steam-ships under weigh, except the white light at the foremast, which they must not use at any time.

Steam-boats towing one or several other vessels at the same time, must carry, independently of their side lights, two white lights placed one above the other at the mast-head, to distinguish them from other steam-boats.

For the application of the rules prescribed by the present Article, every steam-vessel proceeding under sail only, is considered as a sailing vessel, and every steam-ship, of which the machinery is in movement, is considered, whatever sails may be employed, as a steam-vessel.

Rafts navigating at night must carry a white light at each angle, and three white lights at the masthead, placed one underneath the other.

Art. 48.

Sailing vessels, vessels towed by steam-tugs, and rafts, must not proceed when it is not sufficiently clear to permit both banks of the river to be seen at the same time.

Art. 49.

In foggy weather, steam-boats must only proceed slowly, and sound the bell on board without ceasing, sounding the whistle also every five minutes; and they are required to drop anchor if the fog should become so dense that it is impossible for them to perceive the bank on the side they are keeping or to which their course is directed.

Art. 50.

Vessels are forbidden to leave their hawsers across the stream during the night or in foggy weather.

Chapter VI.

Rules for Vessels at Anchor.

Art. 51.

It is expressly forbidden to cast anchor or to moor vessels in the navigable channel.

With the exception provided for by Art. 66 hereafter, it is likewise forbidden to vessels to moor or to anchor in the bends of the river even along the banks, under penalty of liability for any damage that may arise therefrom.

Outside the ports, two or several vessels will not be permitted to be anchored or moored alongside of each other along the towing paths.

Art. 52.

When, on account of fogs, a vessel or a raft is obliged to stop elsewhere than at a regular place of anchorage, it will be requisite, in the case of steam-vessels, to sound the bell on board, and in contrary cases, to hail with the speaking trumpet. These signals must be repeated every five minutes.

Art. 53.

Every vessel stopped on the river during the night must be furnished with a lighted lantern, placed at the extremity either of one of the main yards, or in some other prominent part of the vessel, on the side of the channel, so that it may be clearly perceived by vessels descending or ascending the stream.

Rafts remaining at anchor during the night must carry the lights prescribed by the last paragraph of Art. 47 above, except those at the two angles on the side of the bank, which must be extinguished.

Art. 54.

When a vessel, for the purpose of mooring, or in case of grounding referred to in the following chapter, is obliged to place a cable or a chain across the channel, these moorings must be promptly loosened as soon as another vessel presents itself for passage.

Chapter VII.

Rules in case of Grounding or Shipwreck.

Art. 55.

Every Captain or Master of a vessel or of a raft grounded in the stream of the Soulina is required to station, at a suitable point, and at least one kilometre up-stream above his vessel, a look-out, charged to hail vessels and rafts descending the stream to warn them of the nature and of the locality of the accident.

Art. 56.

Steam-vessels are only permitted to use half steam in passing places where a vessel or a raft has grounded or sunk.

Art. 57.

Every shipwreck in the stream of the Soulina is regarded, unless in exceptional cases, and until there is proof to the contrary, as arising from negligence or ill-will on the part of the Master or the crew.

The Pilot of the vessel is personally responsible for the shipwreck if there is reason to believe it to have been occasioned by unskilful seamanship.

Art. 58.

If, contrary to all probability, a vessel should be wrecked in the Soulina, the Master should endeavour by every means to haul at once to one of the banks, so as not to rest fixed in the channel.

The Captain of the wrecked vessel, and his crew must remain on board or on the bank in proximity to the scene of disaster until the official report mentioned in Art. 59 following, has been drawn up.

They are forbidden to remove on any pretext whatever, any of the cargo, materials, anchors, chains, cables, &c.

Art. 59.

Directly after the shipwreck the Pilot of the vessel must apprise, as promptly as possible, the Inspector-General of Navigation, through the agents for watching the river.

The Inspector-General will at once proceed to the spot and prepare a detailed official report of the disaster, which he must communicate to the proper authority.

Art. 60.

If the Inspector-General should consider it necessary in the interests of navigation, to take immediate measures, he will summon the Captain of the vessel for this purpose, who will be compelled to declare at once whether it is his intention to abandon his vessel, or to act with his crew under the orders of the Inspector-General who will direct the salvage until the operation, having become a matter of private interest, ceases to be a measure of public utility.

A vessel of which salvage has been effected by the care of the authority charged with the police of the river can be held to cover the cost of salvage, and of the custody of the materials.

Art. 61.

Every work undertaken by the owners, assurers, and other persons interested, with the view to effect the salvage of wrecked vessels or of their cargoes, must be performed under the inspection of the Inspector-General or of his agents, and can be at any moment forbidden if of a nature to impede the navigation of the river.

Art. 62.

If, unless in the case of emergency provided for by Art. 60 above, the removal of the hull or of portions of the wreck should be considered requisite, the proprietors, assurers, or others interested must effect it within a month of the notification made to them to this effect, in default of which the work can be performed by the staff of the Inspector-General under the conditions prescribed by Art. 60 above; the shipwrecked vessel, together with its rigging or the fragments is specially liable, in such case, for the payment of the cost of removal.

Art. 63.

In case of damage, and particularly if such damage be caused by collision, the Inspector-General, if he is able to prove the facts, and in case of being required by one of the parties interested, must likewise prepare a report and forward it to the proper authority.

Chapter VIII.

Rules for Throwing Ballast Overboard.

Art. 64.

Vessels are absolutely forbidden to throw ballast into the bed of the stream or into the road of Soulina, and it is equally forbidden for them to discharge it at sea in the neighbourhood of the roads, at a bottom of less than 60 feet English.

The discharge of ballast on land outside the Port of Soulina, can only be effected at such points of the bank as may be determined by the Inspector-General of Navigation, and indicated by public notice.

The Captain of the Port of Soulina will indicate the places at which ballast can be discharged in the port.

The ballast discharged should be in all cases carried to such a distance, that the foot of the heap should be at least 20 feet from the natural bank of the stream.

The provisions of this Article apply equally to cinders and ashes thrown from steamers.

Art. 65.

To ensure as far as possible the execution of the preceding article, every vessel in ballast quitting the Port of Soulina, for one of the ports situated above, must be furnished with a certificate of the Captain of the Port, stating the draught of water produced by the ballast.

This certificate must be preserved on board throughout the duration of the voyage up the river, to be produced whenever required by the Inspector-General or his agents.

TITLE III.

Administration of the Port of Toultcha.

Art. 66.

Every vessel desiring to stop at Toultcha must be moored to the right bank. More than three vessels will not however, at any time, be allowed to moor alongside each other.

Art. 67.

No vessel will be allowed to anchor in the navigable channel before Toultcha on the right of the warpings and the red buoys fixed along the left bank of the river, nor between the posts on the right bank, bearing reversed anchors.

Art. 68.

Vessels will be allowed to haul on the buoys and warpings to double the bend of the river at Toultcha, but will not in any case be permitted to moor to any fixed posts.

It is understood that this provision does not apply to steam-vessels making periodical voyages, and which may stop temporarily before Toultcha.

It is equally forbidden for two or several vessels to haul at the same time on the same buoy.

TITLE IV.

Pilotage Service at the Mouth and in the Stream of the River.

Chapter I.

Pilotage at the Mouth.

Art. 69.

Pilotage at the mouth being compulsory, as stated in Art. 13 of the present regulations, a special staff of certificated and responsible pilots do duty at Soulina under the direction of the Chief Pilot and of the Captain of the Port.

These Pilots will be entitled Pilots of the first class.

Art. 70.

A boat will be ready to convey the pilots on board vessels coming towards port from seawards so soon as the look-out on the lighthouse tower signals their approach.

Pilots are required to go to meet vessels as far as one mile from the angle of the northern dyke.

Art. 71.

When on board they will inform the Captains of the depth of water on the bar, and the Captains will declare to the Pilots the draught of water, and the tonnage of the lading of their vessels.

The tonnage of lading must be declared by the Pilots without delay to the Captain of the Port of Soulina.

Art. 72.

Every Pilot not belonging to the Soulina Pilot Staff who may be on board a vessel about to pass the bar is required as soon as possible after the arrival of the local Pilot to yield to him the conduct of the vessel.

Art. 73.

On leaving the river the local Pilot is required to conduct the vessel to the distance of a quarter of a mile at least to the east of the angle of the northern dyke.

Art. 74.

The pilotage duty both for entry at, and clearance from the river being comprised in the navigation dues charged at Soulina, it is forbidden for Pilots ranked as first class, to receive any remuneration on the part of the Captain whose vessel they may pilot.

Chapter II.

Pilotage in the River.

Art. 75.

Independently of the staff of Pilots of the first class charged with the conduct of vessels in the channel of the mouth of the Soulina and directed by the Captain of the Port, there is a special service of Pilots equally certificated and responsible, designated Pilots of the second class, for vessels which navigate the river between Soulina and Ibraïla.

The service of river pilotage properly so called is placed under the inspection of the Inspector-General of the navigation and is directed by a Chief Pilot who has three offices, at Galatz, at Ibraïla, and at Toultcha, and by a deputy residing at Soulina.

Art. 76.

Masters of merchant vessels will not be required to take a certificated Pilot in remounting the river when they themselves effect the voyage on board of their vessel; the Deputy-Pilot of Soulina, charged with the river pilotage, is required, nevertheless, in the same case to procure a Pilot if the Master of a vessel should require it.

In navigating down the river, every vessel of above 60 tons, as well as every raft or train of wood, must take a certificated Pilot of the second class. The same is required for vessels above sixty tons remounting the river without having the Master of the vessel on board.

Art. 77.

In going up the river, the voyage commences the moment the vessel quits the Port of Soulina to ascend the river, and it terminates on the arrival of the vessel either at its port of destination or at Ibraïla, when destined for a port situated above Ibraïla or at Matchin.

The down voyage commences at Ibraïla, or on quitting the port at which the vessel has taken its cargo, or its expedition if descending empty, in case the port should be situated below Ibraïla, the voyage terminating at the moment the vessel is anchored in the Port of Soulina.

Vessels leaving Matchin, Guelchid, or a port situated above Ibraïla, must take their Pilot for the down voyage in passing Ibraila, those which leave the ports of Réni or Ismaïl have the option of taking the Pilot in passing Toultcha.

Art. 78.

Masters of vessels will arrange with the Pilots the pay which is to be paid to the latter for their services for piloting of vessels ascending the river.

In case however of disputes in this respect, the authorities of the ports will not admit on the part of the Pilots any demand, of which the object is to obtain payment of more than half a Dutch ducat per diem beyond what they receive on board. The pilotage due for vessels going down the river is comprised in the navigation dues charged at Soulina.

The Chief Pilot of the river service deducts the sum of four francs from the amount of the due paid by each vessel for pilotage on descending the river; the surplus of the due is paid to the Pilot.

This due can only be validly paid to the Accountant of the Navigation Treasury at Soulina.

Chapter III.

Rules common to the Mouth and the Course of the River.

Art. 79.

The Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Soulina, each within his jurisdiction, will decide disputes between certificated Pilots and Captains of merchant vessels in case the latter require their intervention.

Art. 80.

Certificated Pilots are required to inform the Inspector-General or the Captain of the Port of Soulina of any infractions committed in their presence.

They are forbidden to have any interest direct or indirect, in any lighterage operation or undertaking.

Art. 81.

Pilots who through incapacity or carelessness have occasioned a collision, grounding, or wreck, are dismissed, without prejudice however to any civil action which claimants may bring against them before any competent tribunal.

If the events which have occasioned the disaster are of a nature to entail criminal punishment, the pilots will be handed over to the proper authorities, to be tried comformably with the law.

TITLE V.

Lighterage Services.

Chapter I.

General Regulations.

Art. 82.

The lighters on the Lower Danube are divided into two classes, namely, those which are exclusively employed in the local service at the Soulina mouth, or of any passage in the course of the stream; and those which are employed in the coasting trade in lading at an interior port to discharge at Soulina or in the outer road.

Art. 83.

No person will be allowed to undertake any operation of local lighterage without having caused to be registered by the Captain of the Port of Soulina, the vessels intended to be used as lighters, and before being furnished with a licence from the Captain of the Port.

Before granting the licence, the Captain must cause the vessel intended for lighterage services to be visited by a Commission, in order to determine if such vessel is in good condition, and who will certify her capacity in tons register and her burden in kilos of Constantinople. This examination will be renewed every year. The licence granted by the Captain of the Port should always be kept on board the lighter.

Vessels furnished with regular ships' papers may be employed occasionally to lighter other vessels, the Captains being required to make for each operation a special declaration, and to deposit their papers, including the roll of the crew, either at the office of the Captain of the Port of Soulina, if it be a case of lightering a vessel at the mouth, or at the office of the Inspector-General, in case of operations to be effected in the stream.

Chapter II.

Of Local Lighters.

Art. 84.

The lighters, whether sailers or steamers, are not permitted to have any vacant space in the hold except such as may be duly recognized by the Captain of the Port at the time the licence is accorded.

Art. 85.

It is forbidden to lighters from the moment they have come alongside of vessels of which they are to receive the cargo, to leave such vessels until the said vessels have weighed anchor.

The Master of the vessel being lightered has the right to place at his own cost, such guard as he may choose, on board the lighter he employs.

It is forbidden to lighters which go into the roads to load on the deck.

Art. 86.

No lighter can leave the Port of Soulina to go to the road without the written permission of the Captain of the Port; such permission is presented at the guard-ship stationed, conformably to Art. 16 of the present regulations, at the entry of the port, on the side towards the sea.

Art. 87

As a general rule lighters must leave the Port of Soulina at the same time as the vessels they have lightered.

Whenever a vessel has been served by several lighters the Captain of the Port will arrange the departure in such a manner that they will not have to remain too long in the road without being able to reload.

Art. 88.

Any lighter which may rejoin in the road the vessel she has lightered, must not quit such vessel on any pretext, except in case of bad weather, before having returned the cargo to the said vessel.

As regards local lighterage operations performed in the inner course of the river, the lighters sail in consort with the lightered vessels.

So soon as the relading of goods has been effected on board the lightered vessel the Master is required to give a written acquittance.

Art. 89.

Lighters entering the Port of Soulina, after having lightered a boat, must present their written permission to leave to the guard-boat, which has the right to visit them.

Lighters which quit the roads during the evening or during the night, after having lightered a vessel which has left the river, must cast anchor in a place specially designated for their anchorage, and are not allowed to ascend further until the next day.

Art. 90.

The surveillance of local lighterage operations, which may be effected at the mouth, is performed by the Captain of the Port of Soulina; the surveillance of such operations as may be performed in the river being exercised by the Inspector-General, or by his agents.

Chapter III.

Coasting Lighters.

Art. 91.

Operations of coasting lighterage may be effected by all steam transports, towing lighters, sailing vessels or lighters furnished with regular papers, on condition that the Captains or Conductors have delivered to them for each voyage, to the Consular authorities or proper local officers in the ports in which they load their cargo, a Certificate stating the object and conditions of the operation.

Art. 92.

So soon as a coasting lighter arrives in the Port of Soulina, the Conductor must proceed to the office of the Captain of the Port, and present the Certificate above mentioned.

If the lighter discharges the whole of her cargo in the interior of the port of Soulina, she must moor alongside the vessel which is to receive the merchandize, and must not leave until the entire discharge of the cargo has been effected.

If the cargo of the lighter is to be discharged either wholly or partly in the road of Soulina, the master of the lighter returns the certificate prescribed by Art. 91 to the Captain of the Port who delivers to the master his authority to leave.

Art. 93.

The provisions of the present regulations as to local lighters are equally applicable to coasting lighters during their stay in the port or in the road of Soulina.

Nevertheless the steam transports and tow-boats are not subjected in re-entering to the visit prescribed by Art. 89 above, unless one of the parties interested should demand it, and in cases of suspected fraud.

Chapter IV.

Special Regulations in case of Bad Weather.

Art. 94.

When a vessel, obliged by stress of weather to quit the roadstead of Soulina, leaves on board the lighter the whole or part of her cargo, the master of the lighter must return to port and retain provisionally his lading.

Art. 95.

If, in the case provided for by the preceding article, the lightered vessel should not re-appear within twelve days, the masters of the lighters have the right to demand of the Captain of the Port the authority to discharge the cargo and to consign it into the hands of duly authorized persons, and they may demand the payment of the freight agreed on, as if they had replaced the cargo on board the vessel lightered, but without any additional charge.

If previously to the expiration of the time above specified the vessel returns to the roadstead to leave again, the days lapsed will not be reckoned, and a new interval will commence from the day of her appearance.

Chapter V.

Special Regulations in case of Fraud.

Art. 96.

In case of presumed inexactitude, or of false statement of the capacity of the lighter, the merchant captain has the right to have the tonnage verified by a commission specially designated, according to circumstances either by the Captain of the Port of Soulina or by the Inspector-General of Navigation.

The costs of examination are to be paid by the captain who may have required it, unless the inexactitude or false declaration should be proved, in which case they will have to be paid by the lighter.

Art. 97.

If the captain of a vessel lightered has reason to believe that a part of her cargo has been fraudulently appropriated on board the lighter he may have chartered, he must report it either to the Captain of the Port of Soulina or to the Inspector-General, who will take the measures prescribed by their special instructions.

If it is discovered that the suspicion is unfounded, the cost of inquiry must be paid by the captain of the lightered vessel.

As regards Captains of sea-going vessels, repetition of an offence will be held to have been committed in case of two infractions occurring during the time that the vessel has not quitted the Danube.

As regards Masters of lighters and pilots, the same offence is considered as repeated when it occurs twice within the space of one year.

Art. 105.

The Inspector-General of Navigation and the Captain of the Port of Soulina take cognizance of infractions committed within their jurisdiction, against the provisions of the present regulations, and can, in the first instance, pronounce the application of the penalties incurred on account of such infractions.

The notification of their judgments is made at Soulina, in the Court of the Consular or Local Authority to whom the person convicted is amenable, if the offence has been committed in descending the river, and is made to the same authority at the port of entry of the vessel where the infraction has been committed going up the river, it may also be legally given to the person committing the offence.

Art. 109.

The penalties are applied, until they reach the amount of 100 ducats a year, to the augmentation of the fund created for the benefit of necessitous pilots; the surplus is paid to the account of the navigation dues to be applied to the support of the marine hospital established at Soulina.

Act relating to the Navigation of the Mouths of the River Danube.

ANNEXE B.

TARIFF of NAVIGATION DUES to be levied at the Mouth of the Danube.

Preamble.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

Whereas by Art. 16 of the Treaty of Paris of the 30th March, 1856, declaring that the cost of the works to be executed in freeing the mouths of the Danube and of the adjacent portions of sea from the obstacles which obstruct them, as well as the cost of the establishments intended to secure and to facilitate the navigation should be paid by means of charges fixed by the Commission;

Whereas the provisional tariff was framed in consequence on the 25th January, 1860, and a revised tariff on the 7th March, 1863;

Whereas the works undertaken at the mouth of the Soulina are now finished, and that by means of the increased depth which has been obtained, the obstacles to navigation at this point have been removed;

Whereas the works of improvement and cleansing executed in the stream of the river, the construction of a lighthouse at the Saint George's mouth, the improvements introduced with regard to the establishments to which the Treaty refers, the creation of a marine hospital at Soulina, to which sick or shipwrecked seamen are gratuitously admitted, ensure to the navigation of the river considerable advantages;

Whereas under these circumstances, and to provide as much for the paying off of the amount spent on the works, as also the cost of their preservation as well as of their eventual development, and of the maintenance of the above said establishments, it is necessary to adopt definitive regulations in the place of the provisional arrangements of the tariff actually in force;

And whereas experience has shown that it will be to the advantage of the navigation that all the dues charged for the improvement works should be incorporated into a single fixed due with the charges made on account of lighting and pilotage,

Have decreed the following tariff:

Art. 1.

Every sailing vessel measuring more than 30 tons, quitting the port of Soulina to go to sea, and which may have completed according to her manifest more than one third of her full lading, will pay per ton measurement a fixed navigation due, of which the amount will be determined hereafter according to the total tonnage of the vessel, and to the depth of the channel at the mouth of the arm of the Soulina.

Vessels which shall have ascended the river to take cargo at an inland port, will pay the duties specified in the following Table :—

Art. 2.

Steamboats belonging to a public company specially engaged in the conveyance of passengers and making periodical voyages according to previous announcement, will pay on leaving the river a fixed duty of 60 centimes per ton measurement whether wholly or partly laden.

This duty will be calculated on the net tonnage of the boat as may be indicated by the ship's papers, that is to say, after deduction of the weight of machinery and fuel has been made from the total tonnage.

If the tonnage of the machinery is not indicated in the ship's papers, a deduction of 37 per cent. will be made on the total tonnage for paddle-wheel ships, and of 32 per cent. for screw vessels; the deduction will be made after the conversion of the tonnage of the vessel into English tons, effected in conformity with the regulations of Article 14 hereafter.

These vessels will be freed from all duty on entering the river.

Art. 3.

All commercial steam-vessels, other than those specified in the preceding Article will be subject to the same dues as sailing vessels, except the amount deducted for machinery and fuel, which will be effected on their total tonnage upon the base determined by the preceding Article. The amount of the fixed duty that such vessels will have to pay per ton measurement, will be determined conformably to the foregoing table according as they shall, or shall not, have ascended the river above the Port of Soulina, and after the deduction accorded to them by the first paragraph of the present Article.

Steam vessels not included in the category determined by Art. 2 above, and which shall make the voyage of the Danube, going and returning more than twice in the same year, will enjoy a deduction of 40 per cent. on the amount of the duties charged on entry and clearance, for each of the light voyages, before the end of the year, which they may perform after the two first, and if the number of annual voyages should exceed 10, the reduction shall be 60 per cent. for each voyage after the tenth during the year.

The number of voyages such vessels may have performed entering or clearing with less than one third of their cargo, will not be reckoned in the number of voyages necessary to obtain the advantage of the above reduction of dues.

Art. 4.

Sailing vessels and commercial steam vessels besides those specified in Art. 2 which may enter the Port of Soulina from the sea, and which shall have according to their manifest more than one third cargo, will pay for entering in the river the fourth part of the tax imposed for clearance by Arts. 1 and 3 above. The duty on entry will only be paid by vessels at the moment when they leave the river. The said vessels will pay on entry the integral amount of the tax fixed by Arts. 1 and 3, if they leave the river with less than one-third of their cargo.

Art. 5.

Lighters freighted for the passage of the mouth of the Soulina by vessels which have paid the duties established by the preceding Articles will pay for each passage performed with a complete or partial lading, only the following amount:—

Lighters of a burden of from 10 to 50 tons, 6 francs.

Those of a burden of more than 50 tons and not exceeding 100 tons, 8 francs.

Art. 6.

Vessels which remain anchored in the road of Soulina to load or discharge by means of lighters the whole or part of their cargo, will not be subjected to the dues established by Arts. 1, 3, or 4, above, they will pay only a uniform tax of 100 francs for each vessel, to contribute to the expenses of the establishments by which they profit.

Such of the said vessels as may enter the port without performing any operation of commerce which may be of a nature to subject them to the dues established by Arts. 1, 2, 3, or 4 above, will pay in addition to the above duty of 100 francs authorized by the preceding paragraph, 50 cents per ton for lighthouse and pilotage duty. This duty will be levied only once, on the vessels leaving port.

Lighters freighted to transport across the mouth the cargoes of vessels which shall have paid no other dues than those established by the present Article, must pay for each passage across the mouth, with an entire or partial lading, a fixed due of 1 franc per ton on the total tonnage.

The lighters employed in discharging ballast will be exempt from all dues.

The duties of 50 centimes per ton respectively imposed by the present Article on sea-going vessels or lighters will be calculated for steamboats on the net tonnage, in conformity with the rules established by Article 2.

Art. 7.

Rafts and floats, of which the dimensions do not exceed 100 English feet in length by 40 feet in width, and which have been towed in descending the arm of the Soulina, will have to pay, on leaving the mouth, a fixed duty of 100 francs.

The duty will be 300 francs for every raft and float which shall have been towed in going down the arm of the Soulina, as well as for those of which the dimensions exceed 100 feet English in length or 40 feet in width.

Art. 8.

Vessels of war are exempt from all dues either on entering or clearing the Soulina mouth as are also tugs when they are not employed as lighters in conveying portions of the cargo of the vessels tugged.

Art. 9.

Vessels of more than sixty tons which enter the port of Soulina and clear again with less than a third of their cargo, and which are in consequence exempted from the dues established by the preceding Arts. 1, 2, and 3, shall pay, on clearance, a tax of fifty-five centimes per ton for lighthouse and pilotage dues.

The same tax shall be paid by sea-going vessels serving occasionally as lighters, and this shall be over and above the duty of 1 franc per ton imposed by paragraph 3 of Article 6 above.

Sea-going vessels or lighters which put into Soulina from stress of weather, and those which, by reason of casualties, are obliged to take refuge in the port, and are unable to continue their voyage, shall be free of all duty, provided they go to sea again without engaging in any commercial operation.

Art. 10.

Both sailing and steam-vessels, without exception, coming from sea with more than a third of their lading, and entering the port of Soulina to discharge a portion of their cargo, and which set sail again to continue their voyage to another port, shall pay, per ton guage, a fixed duty of 2 francs, when the depth of the mouth exceeds 15 English feet; but if the depth is 15 feet only or under, this fixed duty shall decrease in the proportion established by Article 1 of the present Tariff, for those vessels of more than 300 tons, which do not ascend the river, and which, from the insufficiency of water in the Soulina passage, are not able to receive their entire cargo.

This fixed duty shall be levied upon a third of the taxable tonnage, if the quantity of merchandize unloaded at Soulina does not exceed a third of the total and taxable capacity of the vessel, but it shall be levied on two-thirds of the tonnage, if the quantity unloaded is more than one-third, and does not exceed two-thirds of such capacity.

Should it exceed two-thirds, the duties shall be leviable in accordance with the foregoing Arts. 1 and 3.

If the vessel which has discharged at Soulina, in the case foreseen by the present Article, less than two-thirds of its cargo, should receive merchandize in that port, it shall pay, over and above the tax leviable on account of the discharge, one-quarter of this tax, which shall be levied on a third or two-thirds of its taxable tonnage, according as the quantity of merchandize received is confined within a third or two-thirds of the vessel's capacity.

The duties fixed by the preceding Articles shall include:

The tax imposed upon vessels to cover the expenses of works and other improvements effected by the European Commission;

The duties actually in force for the maintenance of the lighthouses constituting the lighthouse system of the mouths of the Danube; and

The duties destined to cover the expenses occasioned by the pilotage service in the Soulina passage, and those of the other establishments instituted with the view of facilitating navigation.

Independently of these duties, vessels shall not be subjected to any other tax or charge, excepting the fees of the riverain pilots, which they shall pay for the descent, in conformity with the Article following.

Art. 12.

Sailing vessels over sixty tons, which shall have ascended the river above the port of Soulina, as well as rafts or floats of timber, shall pay, on leaving the river for the obligatory pilotage of the descent, a fixed tax as follows :—

For the passage from Galatz, or from a port situated beyond this point to Soulina, one hundred and twenty francs ;

For the passage from Réni or Ismaïl to Soulina, one hundred francs ;

And for the passage from Toultcha to Soulina, seventy-two francs.

This tax shall be reduced to half for steam-vessels.

The steam-vessels mentioned in the foregoing Art. 2, may be exempted from this tax, provided that the pilot on board holds a pilotage certificate of the second class. As regards the pilotage of the ascent, which is purely optional, the fee of the pilot can be fixed by arrangement, and it is paid to him direct by the captain of the vessel piloted.

Art. 13.

The amount of the duties shall be paid over to the Accountant charged with the administration of the Navigation Treasury of the port of Soulina, who will deliver a receipt for the same.

A statement showing the reduction into francs of the moneys in use upon the Lower Danube shall always be placarded in the office of collection.

This statement shall be periodically revised.

In cases where the liability to duty is contested, or payment questioned by the parties, the amount of duty shall be paid over to the Navigation Treasury as a deposit.

Demands for entire or partial restitution of the duties shall be carried before the European Commission, or before the international Authority which shall succeed it; they should be stated in writing within three months of the payment or of the deposit, under pain of forfeiture.

Art. 14.

The term ton gauge shall be understood to mean the registered ton English.

The tonnage of vessels shall be taken from the papers on board.

The reduction of the tons of different countries, into English measure, shall be made according to the table annexed to the present tariff.

Art. 15.

Vessels entering the Danube without papers showing their tonnage shall be subjected, with the sole view of fixing the navigation dues to which they are liable conformably to the present tariff, to an approximative valuation to be made by two experts, under the direction of the Captain of the Port, and with the concurrence of the competent Consular authority. The Accountant of the Navigation Treasury shall have the option of assisting at the operation either in person or by means of a delegate.

The same shall take place if the tonnage borne upon the papers is notably incorrect, or if disputes arise with respect to the valuation of the portion of the cargo of a vessel in the case of the foregoing Arts. 1 and 4.

The estimate of the tonnage, in default of papers on board, shall be made at the expense of the vessel concerned; the same shall take place, if the experts declare an excess of more than five tons over the capacity indicated by the papers on board, or if it is decided contrary to the declaration of the Captain or Master that the vessel carries more than a third of its full cargo; in the contrary case the expenses will be charged to the Navigation Treasury. In no case can these estimates give rise to any appeal or application whatever.

Art. 16.

The depths by which the duties established by the present tariff shall be determined, shall be taken at the bar of Soulina in English feet.

The soundings shall be made under the direction and responsibility of the engineer charged with the improvements at the mouth, the results shall be placarded at the office of the Navigation Treasury, and at the office of the Captain of the Port.

If the state of the weather does not permit of such soundings, the amount of duties to be levied shall be based on the last depth taken.

No supplementary payment for clearance dues can be exacted from vessels, nor, except in cases of duly proved errors in the soundings, shall any partial restitution from the Navigation Treasury be required on account of the difference, however great it may be, between the depth of the mouth at the moment of the clearance of the vessel and that which shall have served as a basis for the settlement of the taxes paid.

Art. 17.

Every vessel, raft or float, which shall attempt by any means whatever, the escape, wholly or partly, from payment of the duties fixed by the present tariff, shall be liable in addition to the duties which it is required to pay in conformity with what precedes, to a fine equal to four times the amount.

If the tonnage indicated upon the ship's papers, or the declaration relative to the quantity of merchandise loaded or unloaded at Soulina, according to the foregoing Art. 10, appears to be false, verification of the vessel's capacity, or of the quantity of merchandise compared with the total tonnage, can be resorted to in the manner prescribed by the foregoing Art. 15.

The application of the fine shall be pronounced in the first instance by the Captain of the Port of Soulina; the sentence of condemnation shall be notified to the condemned party either in person, or in the office of the Local or Consular authority resident at Soulina, having charge of the interests of the nation to which he may belong.

The appeal against condemnations must be carried before the European Commission, or before the international authority which shall succeed to it.

Appeal must be made within the three months of the notification, under pain of becoming null.

The forms of proceedure shall be ultimately determined by special regulations. Judgments rendered upon appeals shall not be susceptible of any further redress.

The penalties pronounced by the Captain of the Port shall have effect, notwithstanding the appeal; in case of petition the amount of the fine shall be consigned as a deposit to the Navigation Treasury.

The amount of the fines, when definitely declared, shall be paid into the said Treasury, to be applied towards defraying the expenses of the Marine Hospital.

Art. 18.

The Commanders of ships of war stationed at the mouths of the Danube, conformably to Art. 19 of the Treaty of Paris, shall be called upon to assure the payment of the duties established by the present tariff and of the penalties when definitely settled, with respect to vessels of their own nationality, and those whose flags they protect, either by treaty or custom, or in virtue of a special or general commission.

The action of the ships of war shall be demanded en règle through the Captain of the Port of Soulina upon the requisition of the Accountant charged with the administration of the Navigation Treasury.

In default of a ship of war having power to coerce an offending vessel, the Captain of the Port shall have recourse of the intervention of the Ottoman man-of-war stationed at Soulina.

Art. 19.

The Provisional Tariff of the 7th of March, 1863, shall cease to be applied, and the present tariff shall come into force after the ratification of the Public Act to which it is annexed, and upon the date to be hereafter fixed by a special notification of the European Commission to that effect.

Galatz, the 2nd November, 1865.

ANNEXE to the Final Protocol of the 2nd November, 1865.

Arrangement relative to the repayment of the advances made by the Sublime-Porte for the improvement of the navigation of the mouths of the Danube.

The Sublime Porte having engaged, in the sitting of the Congress of Paris of the 27th March, 1856 (Protocol No. 16) to make the necessary advances for the execution of the works with which the European Commission of the Danube was charged by the terms of Art. 16 of the Treaty of the 30th of the same month, it has provided for the expenses of the said Commission up to the moment when, by the coming in force of a tariff of navigation dues at the Soulina mouth, the costs for the completion of the works commenced have been levied directly by the Commission itself on vessels navigating the river.

Independently of the sum which It has paid in specie, the Sublime Porte has authorised the European Commission to cut in the forest of Dobrudcha a part of the wood necessary for the works, and it has moreover placed at the disposal of the Commission a dredging machine and a tug, furnished by the Arsenal of the Imperial Navy.

The Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris before mentioned, having stipulated that the expenses of the improvements executed at the mouths of the Danube, and those of the establishments having for object the securing and facilitating of the navigation, shall be re-imbursed by means of fixed duties paid by the vessels, it becomes necessary to determine the amount of the sums due to the Sublime Porte, as much on account of its advances in specie as on account of Its payments of all kinds, together with the mode and conditions of the repayment of the sum for which it is recognised as creditor.

It is with this end that the arrangement as follows has been concluded between the delegates of the Sublime Porte, on the one hand, and the delegates of the six other Powers, represented in the European Commission of the Danube, on the other :—

Art. 1.

The debt to the Sublime Porte, repayment of which is to be effected by means of the navigation dues levied at the mouths of the Danube, is to be liquidated as follows :

a. The sums which the European Commission has received in specie, during the years 1856 to 1860, inclusively, as shown by the journal of the receipts of the Commission, amount to 316,975*d.* 19*p.* 3*p.*

b. The sum due to the Sublime Porte for the price of the wood which the said Commission has felled in the forest of Dobrudcha, and employed for the improvements, is fixed by common consent at 3,252*d.* 40*p.* 33*p.*

c. The hire of the tug placed by the Arsenal of the Imperial Navy at the disposal of the European Commission, is calculated at 15 per cent. per annum on the cost price of the said tug, for the 146 days of effective service during which it has been employed in the works ; this amount is, consequently, fixed and agreed upon as the sum of 480*d.*

d. The hire of the steam dredge employed by the Commission, is also calculated at 15 per cent. on the cost price for the two years during which it remained at the service of the European Commission ; this sum is fixed and agreed upon, in consequence, at the sum of 3,000*d.*

The sum total of the advances made by the Sublime Porte, and of the value of the funds furnished by it, amounts therefore to 323,708*d.* 13*p.* 36*p.*

From this sum should be deducted 14,555*d.* 33*p.* 24*p.*, being the amount of the expenses for constructing the telegraphic line established by the European Commission between Soulina, Toultcha, Ismaïl and Galatz, which the Sublime Porte has consented to defray, as set forth in the declaration made by its delegate in the sitting of the 3rd of March, 1857. (Protocol, No. XVII, § 6.)

From which it results that the debt to the Sublime Porte becomes reduced to and fixed at the sum of three hundred and nine thousand, one hundred and forty-two ducats, twenty-six piastres, twelve paras (309,142*d.* 26*p.* 12*p.*)

Art. 2.

This sum of three hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty-two ducats, twenty-six piastres, twelve paras, shall be paid to the Sublime Porte by the European Commission of the Danube, or by the Authority which shall succeed to this last, in fifty annual payments of fourteen thousand three hundred and ninety ducats each, including the repayment of the capital and the interest calculated at the rate of four per cent. per annum. The first payment shall fall due immediately after the completion of the principal works undertaken for the improvement of the mouths of the Danube.

The net produce of the navigation dues levied at the mouths, deduction of the necessary sums being made, shall be specially applied to this payment, both for the purpose of repaying the sums due to the Ottoman bank, for the guarantee of which, the produce of the tariff has, by permission, been pledged, as with the view of assuring the maintenance, preservation, and development of the improvements, and the service of the establishments mentioned in Article 16 of the Treaty of Paris.

Art. 3.

In consideration of the delay consented to by the Sublime Porte, for the repayment of the debt due to it, and of the facilities which it has afforded to the European Commission from the commencement of the works, the said Commission renounces entirely all claims to interest, and other expenses which have been incurred, to procure the necessary supplies, when a delay has arisen in the payments of the Sublime Porte.

Art. 4.

The Sublime Porte consents that the salaries of the Staff of the Administration of the Port of Soulina shall be paid, in future, by the European Commission, as well as the sums which may be actually due to the said Staff for the past. Such payments shall take place on the account of the Sublime Porte, being charged on the first instalments due conformably to the stipulations of the foregoing Article 2.

Art. 5.

It is understood that the European Commission of the Danube shall always have the option of discharging the whole or the remainder of the debt due to the Sublime Porte in virtue of the present arrangement, and this, too, without waiting for the expiration of the annual payments stipulated in the foregoing Article 2.

In the case of one or more of these payments having been paid off at the period when repayment is offered by the Commission, this repayment shall not include more than the sum remaining due as capital, to be determined by calculation.

The Authority succeeding to the European Commission shall equally have the option of making such anticipatory repayment.

Art. 6.

The present arrangement shall be ratified by the Sublime Porte within a period of two months, or sooner, if possible.

It has been signed in original in duplicate at Galatz, this second day of November, eighteen hundred and sixty-five.

And for the better discovery of the truth in the premises, We do, by these presents, give and grant unto you, or any three or more of you, full power and authority to make such inquiry as aforesaid, either in London or at the Recruiting Depôts, or other places of the United Kingdom, as to your judgments may seem best, and in the manner which you may deem most expedient, and to call before you, or any three or more of you, such persons as you shall judge necessary, by whom you may be the better informed of the truth of the premises, and to inquire of the premises by all other lawful ways and means whatsoever.

And We do further, by these presents, give and grant unto you, or any three or more of you, full power and authority, to cause all persons to bring and produce before you, or any three or more of you, all and singular records, books, papers, and other writings, touching the premises, which shall be in the custody of any of them.

And We further will and command, and by these presents ordain, that this, Our Commission, shall continue in full force and virtue, and that Our said Commissioners, or any three or more of you, shall and may, from time to time, proceed in the execution thereof, and of every matter and thing therein mentioned, although the same be not continued from time to time by adjournment.

And We do hereby command all and singular the Justices of the Peace, Sheriffs, Mayors, Bailiffs, Constables, Officers, Ministers, and all

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 15, 1866.

War Office, May 14, 1866.

THE Secretary of State for War has received a Despatch, dated February 15, 1866, and its enclosures, from Major-General Chute, Commanding Her Majesty's Forces in New Zealand, of which the following are copies:—

Head Quarters, Wellington,
February 15, 1866.

My Lord,

YOUR Lordship will have learned from my despatch of the 8th ultimo, No. 52, and its enclosures, that hostilities had recommenced in the Whanganui district, and you will have been made acquainted with the particulars of the operations up to the capture of Okotuku and Putahi, on the 4th and 7th January.

From Putahi, the Field Force moved to the vicinity of Ketemarai, an important locality, from the fact of its being situated in a most fertile district, and close to the point where the native track, leading behind Mount Egmont to Mataitawa, enters the forest. In this neighbourhood there were numerous pahs and extensive cultivations.

The principal fortified position of the rebels was Otapawa, about four miles from our camp, and with a view to the attack of this stronghold I augmented the Field Force with detachments as per margin,* from Waingongoro and Manawapon.

At 2 30 on the morning of the 13th I moved against the rebel position, with the force detailed in the margin.† Our route lay along a good bullock track for two and a-half miles, after which it passed through high fern and scrub, along the edge of a broad and deep valley; into this we descended by a precipitous declivity, and after crossing two streams again reached high ground by a very steep ascent through thick bush. From the nature of the ground I had no opportunity of making a satisfactory reconnaissance; the tops of the whares, however, being just visible from the near side of the valley, I posted the six-pounder guns there, and advanced under cover of their fire, which was ably directed by Lieut. Carré, Royal Artillery. In a few minutes we emerged from the scrub and bush on the open, opposite the posi-

† Royal Artillery—1 subaltern, 3 serjeants, 30 rank and file, three 6-pounder Armstrong guns; 2nd Battalion, 14th Regiment—1 field officer, 2 captains, 2 subalterns, 6 serjeants, 3 drummers, 200 rank and file; 57th Regiment—1 field officer, 1 captain, 2 subalterns, 4 serjeants, 2 drummers, 130 rank and file; Forest Rangers—1 officer, 1 serjeant, 35 rank and file; Native Contingent—1 subaltern, 200 rank and file. tion, which consisted of an entrenched work strongly palisaded, with a front of about a hundred yards. The approach was over level ground, flanked on the right by a tongue of bush, at seventy yards; on the left front there were fenced cultivations. It would have been a work of great labour and loss of time to get guns to this point, I, therefore, took advantage of an undulation in the ground, at the distance of 150 yards from the work, and formed the force in the following order, viz.:—57th Regiment on the left, in skirmishing order, with a strong company, and the Forest Rangers in support; the 2nd Battalion, 14th Regiment, extended on the right, with 100 men in support; the Native Contingent in reserve. The signal for the assault was then given, and the troops dashed at the work with irresistible impetuosity; the rebels kept perfectly quiet until they were within forty yards, and then opened a most severe and unusually well-directed fire from the whole front of the entrenchment and the bush on its right. Under this heavy cross fire a portion of the 57th Regiment, under Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel Hassard, wheeled to the left, drove the rebels from the bush, and advanced against the right angle of the pah.

At the same moment the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment, under Lieutenant-Colonel Trevor, and the remainder of the 57th under Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel Butler, both most gallantly led, reached the left angle of the work through the cultivations. The Maoris fought desperately for a time, but in vain; the palisading was cut down, the troops entered the work and carried all before them. The enemy broke and fled down the precipitous densely wooded gulley immediately at the rear of the pah, where it was impossible for the troops to pursue them; some of them, however, there fell under the fire of a detachment of the Native Contingent, whom I had sent round into this gulley. The whole of the defences, the village and cultivations were destroyed.

The capture of Otapawa is, I believe, of the utmost importance. It was a position, I am informed, of historical repute for its natural strength, and had the name of having never fallen in any of the native wars. It was, in fact, inaccessible for any force, except by the way we advanced to it, and the character of the approaches and the nature of the immediate locality of the pah, as well as the strength of its defences, certainly were such as in some measure to justify the opinion of the natives that they held an impregnable position. In the capture of such a position it is not to be expected that our loss could be insignificant. In comparison, however, with the nature of the service, the number of our casualties was not great. Seven men were killed and fourteen wounded. Two officers, Lieutenant-Colonel Hassard, 57th Regiment, and Lieutenant Swanson, 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment were wounded; and it is with deep regret I have to add that the former officer died of his wounds two days after the action.

The loss of Lieutenant-Colonel Hassard, who had already served with distinction in the Crimean War, is much to be deplored; he had led his men most gallantly to the assault, and fell when inside the pah, which he had been one of the first to enter.

The loss of the enemy I estimate at fifty killed and wounded, including their Chief.

On the night of the 14th, having sent a portion of the Native Contingent into the bush near Ketemarai, I moved on the following morning at 4.15 with a force as per margin,* and at a distance of two miles from camp came in front of a line of stockading and earthwork, flanked on either side by bush, and extending across the main track, leading into the clearing in which Ketemarai is situated. The position was carried without opposition, though it had evidently been the intention of the rebels to defend it, for we found provisions, and fires still alight inside the work. I can only account for their not availing themselves of so formidable a position for opposing our advance, by attributing it to the dispiriting effect of their severe loss at Otapawa. The force then advanced on Ketemarai itself, which is about a mile within this entrenchment, and consisted of four palisaded pahs in échellon, enclosing a large number of whares; these were all burnt, and, as far as practicable, the cultivations destroyed.

The regular troops then marched back to the camp, and the Forest Rangers and Native Contingent remained to search the bush in the vicinity. This they did for several hours, during which they came across some small parties of the enemy (twenty-one of whom are reported to have been killed), and destroyed the following villages, viz.: Te Whenuka, Te Moro, Kaniki, Mawhitihito, Te Paki, Otukere, Aoteroa, and another large pah the name of which is not certain, but supposed to be Ahipaipa.

The same afternoon I sent out 300 men, consisting of 2 battalion of the 14th, 50th (of which corps I had on the previous day brought up 150 from Patea), and 57th Regiments, with the three six-pounder Armstrong guns, the whole under Lieutenant-Colonel Butler, 57th Regiment, to attack the rebel villages of Keteonitia and Puketi, about four miles from camp. The enemy fled at the approach of the troops, and Lieutenant-Colonel Butler destroyed both these places and their cultivations.

As I could hear nothing of the existence of any other fortified positions or villages of the enemy in this district, I made arrangements for at once moving by the track above referred to through the forest to Mataitawa, returning to Whanganui by the coast line, as explained in my last despatch.

For some time I had been endeavouring to obtain information regarding this track, but not having been used by any but rebels for years past, those who professed to know anything of it were so vague in their descriptions that had they not all agreed on one point, viz., that the journey was one usually performed by the natives easily in two days, but that it would take troops three days, I should have hesitated in the undertaking on which, I must say, I embarked with much anxiety, and then only from a desire to act agreeably to the wishes of his Excellency the Governor, and in consideration of the moral effect such a movement was likely to produce.

I moved early on the 17th ultimo, with a force as per margin,* entering the forest from the clearing of Ketemarai. For a short distance our advance was unchecked as we were traversing a good dray road leading to a village and cultivations; these were destroyed, and a few rebels were seen retreating from the whares. From that point our progress was slow and laborious in the extreme, and the difficulties against which we had to contend will be better understood by your Lordship when I inform you, that to accomplish a distance of about fifty-four miles the force was eight days actually on the move, and never less than ten hours in any one day.

I thus found I had been quite misinformed as to the nature and length of the track, which had even been represented to me as practicable for pack-horses, except at two or three places, where slight improvement would be required. So far from this being the case, there were no less than twenty-one rivers and eighty-nine gulleys, the precipitous banks of many of which formed an obstruction to our advance, and required much labour to make them passable; and, except for the first two miles after entering the bush, working parties were throughout the whole of the march constantly employed in advance, cutting down trees, supple-jack, &c., for the passage of the pack-animals. The weather, moreover, which had been fine for the first three days changed to continuous rain. This increased our difficulties in crossing the gulleys, and necessitated the construction of corduroy roads over swamps, which might otherwise have been practicable.

Our guide, the Waitotara Chief Pehimana, who assured me that he was well acquainted with the route, at the end of the third day's march, on coming to a river he professed to know, stated that we were only six miles from Mataitawa, but after a tedious march on the following day the 20th, finding that he had been mistaken, I determined to send forward a party of Native Contingent accompanied by Captain Leach, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, in order to ascertain our position, and, if possible, to procure supplies. I continued the march for about six miles on the 21st, and not having heard from Captain Leach, halted the following day to await his return as well as to rest the pack-horses, now much wearied.

I should state that as it was necessary to limit as far as possible the quantity of the supplies, &c., to be conveyed on pack-horses, I had directed that three days provisions only should be taken, in addition to the day's ration carried by the men on the first day the 17th. When, however, at the close of the third day's march the 19th, there appeared to be some uncertainty as to our distance from Mataitawa, I directed the day's provisions then remaining to be divided, and half rations only were issued to the troops on the 20th and 21st. For two days horse flesh was issued as a ration.

Late in the evening of the 22nd Captain Leach returned having made arrangements with Colonel Warre, C.B., commanding at Taranaki, for the supply of the force during the remainder of the march to Mataitawa, then distant 20 miles and where we arrived on the 25th.

I need not dwell further on the arduous nature of the duties performed by the Field Force on this march in the face of unusual difficulties and hardships, and while exposed to much inclement weather; it will, however, be gratifying to your Lordship to be assured that officers and men appeared to vie with each other in the performance of their duties, with unyielding energy and cheerfulness, and I am happy to add there was not a single case of sickness.

On the first day's march, the Native Contingent, who were in advance, came suddenly on a party of seven rebels, three of whom were shot. These men were Ngatiruanuis, who, it appears, had gone to the north of the Waitara for assistance in men and arms, and having failed were returning to the Ketemarai.

With a view of intercepting any fugitive rebels that might be retiring before my force, Colonel Warre, in pursuance of instructions I had given him, dispatched on the 20th January Lieutenant-Colonel Morant, 68th Light Infantry, with 150 men, to move along a track leading south from Te Arei and eventually joining that on which I was marching. Colonel Morant's force returned to Mataitawa on the 23rd without meeting any rebels.

After emerging from the bush on the 25th, I encamped the force four miles north of New Plymouth, and moved thence by the coast line to Warea, which we reached on the 29th. This your Lordship will remember has been for some time past a notoriously troublesome district, where some of the most turbulent of the rebels had collected, and it was reported to me that a considerable body of them had established themselves at a pah called Waikoko, situated in the bush directly inland from Tipoka, a temporary post on the seaboard, seven miles south of Warea, occupied a few days before by Captain Corbett's Company of Military Settlers.

On the 30th I moved the Field Force to Tipoka, and in order, if possible, to cut off the retreat of the rebels, I sent Captain Corbett's company by a tract leading to the right rear of Waikoko, and instructed Captain Livesay, 43rd Light Infantry, commanding at Opunaki, to march on the night of the 31st with 100 men, by an inland tract leading from the south to the rebel position.

In accordance with this arrangement, I left Tipoka at 3 A.M., on the 1st instant, with the force as per margin,* and proceeding by a path leading through scrub and dense bush, for six miles, reached a large clearing, within which Waikoko is situated, at a distance of about 500 yards from the point where the troops emerged. The force was at once formed in the following order, viz.: the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment on the right, the 43rd Light Infantry on the left, and the Forest Rangers in the centre, all in skirmishing order; with supports, the Native Contingent forming a reserve. I then gave the order to advance when a heavy fire was opened by the enemy, and the troops at once gallantly charged and occupied the place; the rebels retreating and re-opening fire from the bush from whence they were as quickly driven. Captains Corbett and Livesay, with their detachments arrived on the ground immediately after.

Our loss was not severe on this occasion, that of the rebels could not be ascertained, four bodies only were found. The whares and cultivations, which were unusually extensive, having been destroyed, the troops returned to their respective camps.

On the 2nd the Field Force marched to Opunaki, where I found a number of natives recently in arms against us, who had been permitted by the civil authorities to reside in a village near the redoubt, without taking the oath of allegiance. I immediately directed them to be made prisoners. Amongst the number was Te Ua, the so-called prophet, and the founder of the Hau-hau fanaticism. This man has been brought to Wellington for His Excellency the Governor's disposal. The remainder were set at liberty on taking the oath of allegiance and giving up their arms.

Prior to my departure from Opunaki I instructed Captain the Hon. A. E. Harris, 43rd Light Infantry, to capture and destroy a pah near Warea, to which it was reported the rebels from Waikoko had retired. In this service he was to be aided by Captain Livesay, with a detachment of the 43rd Light Infantry from Opunaki, and the military settlers from Tipoka. This duty was effectually performed, the enemy having been driven from the place with loss, and the village destroyed.

On the 4th the Field Force marched to Waingongoro.

I enclose the copy of a report received from Lieutenant-Colonel Butler, 57th Regiment, who had, under my instructions, availed himself of every opportunity of harrassing the dispersed rebels in the vicinity of Otapawa and Ketemarai, during my march round Mount Egmont.

On the 5th the force marched to Manawapou, seven miles inland of which post it had been reported to me that some of the rebels had collected at a pah called Meremere, which Lieutenant-Colonel Butler described as one of great strength. I, therefore, sent this officer with a force as per margin* to destroy it, and this he accomplished on the afternoon of the 6th without meeting any material opposition from the enemy, who fired a few shots and fled. A considerable extent of cultivation was destroyed.

On the same day the force under my command continued its march, and arrived in Whanganui on the 9th instant.

His Excellency the Governor having considered these operations necessary in consequence of the defiant attitude assumed by the natives between Taranaki and Whanganui, and their gross treachery in slaughtering messengers sent to them on errands of peace, it was my great desire to carry out his Excellency's wishes by the infliction of severe punishment upon them. This object has, I believe, been fully attained. The rebels have suffered most heavily in the loss of men, horses, cattle, and other property. All their known positions of strength have fallen, and their villages and cultivations been destroyed.

The brilliant conduct of the troops, particularly of the 2nd Battalion of the 14th Regiment, and the detachment of Royal Artillery, throughout this short but arduous campaign is deserving the greatest praise. Their gallantry displayed in the several assaults, and their patient endurance on the trying march through the forest are alike creditable to officers and men, to all of whom I feel much indebted for the spirit with which they invariably carried out my instructions.

I have more especially to express my thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel Trevor, 2nd Battalion, 14th Regiment, for the gallant manner in which he on all occasions commanded his regiment. My thanks are likewise due to Captains R. H. Vivian and R. A. L. Furneaux, both active and zealous officers; also to Lieutenants J. Anderson, A. R. Keogh, H. Swanson, and G. Callwell, and to Ensign N. B. Churchward, of the same corps, equally deserving of favourable mention.

Lieutenant G. T. Carrè, in command of a detachment of the Royal Artillery, rendered me much valuable service during the campaign.

Lieutenant-Colonel Butler, 57th Regiment, is deserving of much credit for the manner in which he carried out my instructions in harrassing the rebels in the vicinity of Waingongoro, as also for his gallantry in command of a detachment of his regiment at the taking of Otapawa.

Major J. H. Rocke, 2nd Battalion 18th Regiment, and Captain C. R. Johnson, 50th Regiment, ably commanded detachments of their corps a the capture of Putahi.

Captain R. H. P. Doran, 50th Regiment, commanded a detachment of his corps, and rendered good service in the operations under Lieutenant-Colonel Butler during my absence with the Field Force in the Taranaki district.

I feel much indebted to Captain R. P. Bishopp, 2nd Battalion 18th Regiment, commanding Commissariat Transport Corps, for the energetic manner in which he carried out his arduous duties under most trying circumstances.

The wounded received the greatest attention from the officers of the Medical Department, viz.,

Staff Assistant-Surgeons W. G. N. Manley, V. C. and E. O'Connell, under the admirable superintendence of Deputy Inspector-General Gibb. These officers were most indefatigable in their exertions under fire in relieving the sufferings of those who fell.

The arrangements for the important duties connected with the supply of the force, were ably conducted by Deputy Commissary-General Strickland, who had many difficulties to contend with.

The Rev. J. Collins, 4th class Chaplain to the Forces, accompanied the expedition; was present at the engagements of Otapawa and Waikoko, and was at all times most zealous in the performance of his duties.

Colonel R. Carey, C.B., Deputy Adjutant-General, and Lieutenant-Colonel D. J. Gamble, C.B., Deputy Quartermaster-General, who had been detained in Auckland on duties connected with the embarkation of troops for England, joined the Field Force on the 11th January, and were present during the remainder of the campaign, rendering me much valuable assistance at the capture of Otapawa, the march through the forest, and subsequent operations.

Major Dean Pitt, my Assistant Military Secretary, and Captain E. Leach, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, accompanied me throughout the campaign, in the early part of which, including the assaults on Okotuku and Putahi, they were the only Staff Officers with the Force. I cannot express too strongly my appreciation of their gallant conduct and valuable services.

I have, &c.

SIR, February 4, 1866.

I HAVE the honour to inclose herewith, for the information of the Major-General Commanding, a diary of my proceedings with the force left by the Major-General under my command on the 17th January, 1866. I trust that the measures which I have adopted to carry out the orders given to me to harrass the enemy, and destroy all cultivations, &c., may meet with your approval.

I may be permitted to add that, from Captain Doran and the detachment 50th Regiment, I received the most energetic co-operations ; my best thanks are due to these officers and men, as well as to those of the 57th Regiment, who have been engaged with me, also to Sir Robert Douglass, 57th Regiment, and Major McDonnell, of native contingent, who, despite of his wound, insisted in rendering active aid, and did good service.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) H. BUTLER, Major and Lieutenant-Colonel, 57th Regiment, Commanding Garrison.

Deputy-Quartermaster-General, Head Quarters.

Diary of operations with flying column under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Butler, 57th Regiment, in the Ngatarunui country, from 17th January, 1866, to 3rd February, 1866.

18th January.—On the morning of the 18th January I moved out of camp with one field gun, 200 men of the 50th and 57th Regiments, and about 120 friendly natives. Proceeded in the direction of Oukuti, which I found destroyed, as I had left it two days before, also to the pah Tiretire Moanu, where three bodies were discovered, one being that of the Chief Hohepa, a man of considerable importance; this pah was quite destroyed, the enemy escaped as usual by the rear, and pursuit was not possible. There were in all about 50 natives to defend the pah. Brought in from it 15 cart loads of potatoes, and destroyed a vast quantity of cultivations. Returned to this post that evening.

19th January.—Halted. The friendly Maories went out to reconnoitre and obtain intelligence, the want of which much retarded my movements.

20th January.—Marched off at 10 A.M., having been delayed by the non-arrival of the native contingent sent out yesterday. Took with me 20 military train under Lieutenant Creagh, 80 rank and file, 50th, and a 100 rank and file, 57th Regiment, also about 120 native contingent under Major McDonnell. My object was to attack a strong position called Ohipipi, in which it was said several natives were congregated. I detached the native contingent along the left bank of the Waingongoro River, with directions to cross it at the edge of the bush and endeavour to get in rear of Ohipipi, in order to intercept the retreat of the natives. I advanced myself direct upon the position and found it deserted, some of the enemy, however, came down and fired on my party when in the act of destroying the whares; one man of the 57th Regiment was severely wounded. The native contingent were now ordered to pursue the enemy into the bush; this they did vigourously, and within a mile of Ohipipi they came upon a large village. This party was supported by some of the 57th Regiment under Sir Robert Douglass. After a heavy fire and a stout resistance of about 20 minutes the village was carried. A large number of the enemy were seen carrying off a body with much care; it is believed that a great chief was killed, possibly of Kau Kawa. A well furnished strong European house was erected close to the mill or flagstaff, it was destroyed in common with everything to be found, including many cultivations. Five of the enemy were killed, one man of the native contingent wounded; the destruction of this place is considered of importance as it was newly built by the Hau Haws with unusual care, and was as it were the head-quarters of the fanatics in the neighbourhood.

21st January.—Halted, and continued my efforts to obtain information.

22nd and 23rd January.—Convoy days; the friendly natives went into the bush and brought back a quantity of potatoes.

24th January.—Started at 8 A.M., took with me 14 Military Train, 80 rank and file, 50th, 100 57th, and about 100 native contingent. Proceeded towards Wheri Wheri, which has been already destroyed, thence towards Tuohatiwi, crossed the Waingongoro River, and struck into the bush towards Katamaria. I soon came upon clearances, under careful cultivation, amongst the rest about two acres of wheat, much Indian corn and tobacco, and a number of fruit trees; all were destroyed. After a long and harassing march the force returned to camp viâ the Katamaria road.

25th January.—At 4 P.M., considering that I no longer required the services of the 50th Regiment under Captain Doran, I ordered that officer to return to the Patia.

26th January.—Rested in camp.

27th January.—Rested again, and sent the natives out to reconnoitre; they lost one man in the bush. It was afterwards ascertained that he was killed by the Hau Haws. A party of the natives went in search of their missing companion, but found no trace of him. On their return they were attacked in force by Hau Haws; one of our natives was killed, and another badly wounded; they reported having killed three Hau Haws.

29th January.—Took 100 Imperial troops, 50 natives, all available carts, C.T.C., to Katamaria for firewood.

30th January.—Halted.

31st January.—Sent another party to Katamaria, they came upon fresh cultivations concealed in the bush, these were destroyed, and quantities of vegetables brought into camp.

1st and 2nd February.—Remained in camp in consequence of the inclemency of the weather.

3rd February.—Sent out a party consisting of 80 rank and file, 57th Regiment, and some friendly natives towards Katamaria for firewood.

MARIANO IGNACIO PRADO,

Jeje Supremo Provisorio de la Republica,

Considerando :

1°. Que en el estado de guerra en que se halla la Repúbliea eon el gobierno español, no es lieito á los neutrales proporcionar á los beligerantes medio alguno de haeer mas poderosas y eficaces sus hostilidades :

2°. Que el Perú tiene un perfecto derecho y está en el caso de privar al enemigo de todos las articulos que ha menester para continuar en actitud de guerra :

3°. Que es un hecho evidente que algunas embarcaciones con bandera neutral, han suministrado á los buques españoles carbon de piedra y otras provisiones, sin las cuales no habrian podido subsistir en el Pacifico :

4°. Que, asi quebrantada la neutralidad, á que están obligados los estraños, es indispensable emplear medidas que, sin negar al comercio legal los favores que necesita, pongan á los traficantes de mala fé en la imposibilidad de practicar acciones prohibidas :

Art. único. No es permitido arribar ni cargar, en los puertos y caletas en la República, á las embarcaciones neutrales que desde hoy proporcionen á los buques de la escuadra Española, combustible, provisiones de boca, artículos de guerra ó de cualquiera especie, ó que se comuniquen con ella.

MARIANO IGNACIO PRADO,

Provisional Supreme Chief of the Republick,

Considering :

1st. That in the state of war in which the Republic is at present with the Spanish Government, it is illegal for neutrals to furnish the belligerents any means in making more powerful and efficient their hostilities.

2nd. That Peru has a perfect right, and is under the necessity of keeping from the enemy all articles that assist in continuing the war.

3rd. That it is an evident fact that several vessels under neutral flags have furnished to the Spanish vessels coal, and other provisions, without which they could not have remained in the Pacific.

4th. That thus violating the neutrality to which foreigners are bound, it is necessary to take those steps which, without refusing to legal commerce the favours they require, prevent the illegal traffickers from practising their prohibited trade.

I decree :

No neutral vessel which from this date furnishes to the vessels of the Spanish Squadron fuel, provisions, articles of war, or of any other kind, or which communicates with it, will be allowed to enter, or load at, the ports or creeks of the Republick.

The Secretary of State in the office of Commerce is ordered to enforce this Decree, and to have it published and circulated.

Given in the Palace, at Lima, this 5th day of April, 1866.

By the QUEEN,

A PROCLAMATION.

VICTORIA, R.

WHEREAS by Our Order in Council of this day's date we were graciously pleased to annul, from and after the thirtieth day of September next, Our Royal Proclamation of the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, regulating, according to the scheme set forth therein or recognized thereby, the distribution of the net proceeds of prizes captured from the enemy, of captures and seizures under the several Acts of Parliament passed relating to the revenues of customs, and to trade and navigation, for the abolition of the Slave Trade, for the capture and destruction of pirates and piratical vessels, and of the rewards conferred for the same, as also of the awards for all salvage granted to the crews of Our ships and vessels of war, when not otherwise specially apportioned by the terms of the respective awards and allowances, and in consequence of certain alterations in the apportionment and classification of the shares being desirable, it is expedient that provision should be made for the future distribution of such net proceeds and salvage not otherwise specially apportioned, and all other moneys whatsoever granted to be shared among the officers and crews of Our ships and vessels in the manner of prize money.

We do, therefore, now make known to all Our loving subjects, and to all others whom it may concern, by this Our Proclamation, by and with the advice and consent of Our Privy Council, that Our Royal will and pleasure is, and We do hereby direct, that ships or vessels being in sight of a prize, as also of the captor, under circumstances to cause intimidation to the prize and encouragement to the captor, shall be alone entitled to share as joint captors, and that the distribution of all such net proceeds of prizes, rewards, allowances, salvage awards, and of all bounties and grants whatsoever distributable to Our Royal Navy in the manner of prize money, shall be made as follows; viz.:—

That the flag officer or officers shall have onethirtieth part of the whole net proceeds arising from prizes captured from the enemy, and from all other captures and seizures, &c., as aforesaid, made by any of the ships or vessels under his or their command, and of the rewards conferred for the same, according to the following conditions and modifications, save and except as hereinafter provided and directed; that is to say:—

When there is but one flag officer he shall have the entire one-thirtieth part; when two flag officers shall be sharing together, the chief shall have two-thirds, and the other flag officer shall have the remaining one-third of the one-thirtieth part; and when there shall be more than two flag officers the chief shall have one-half of the said one-thirtieth part, and the remaining half shall be equally divided among the junior flag officers; commodores of the first class and captains of the fleet to share as flag officers: provided always, that no flag officer, unless actually on board any of Our ships or vessels of war, and at the actual taking, sinking, burning, or otherwise destroying any ship or ships of war, privateer or privateers belonging to the enemy, shall share in the distribution of any head money or bounty money granted as a reward for the taking, sinking, burning, or otherwise destroying any such ship or vessel of the enemy.

That no flag officer, unless actually present at the capture or destruction of any pirates or piratical ship, vessel, or boat, shall share in any distribution of the proceeds or bounty in respect of such pirates, or of the crews of such piratical ship, vessel, or boat.

That no flag officer shall share in any remuneration or reward conferred or awarded to the crew of any of Our ships or vessels as salvage, unless he shall have been actually on board the ship or vessel to which the award shall be made, or have personally aided and assisted in the transaction at the time the service was rendered.

That no flag officer commanding in any port in the United Kingdom shall share in the proceeds of any prize captured from the enemy, or in other captures, seizures, rewards, or any distributive proceeds as aforesaid, made by any ships or vessels which shall sail from or leave such port by order of the Lord High Admiral, or of Our Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral.

That when ships or vessels under the command of several flag officers belonging to separate stations, shall be joint captors, &c., each flag officer shall receive a proportion of the one-thirtieth part according to the number of officers and men present under the command of each such flag officer; and when ships or vessels under orders from the Lord High Admiral, or from Our Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral, are joint captors, &c., with other ships or vessels under a flag or flags, the like regulations as to the apportionment of the flag share to the flag officer or officers are to be observed.

With reference to flag officers it is to be noted,—

That when an inferior flag officer is sent to reinforce a superior officer on any station, the superior flag officer shall not share in any prize taken by the inferior flag officer before he has arrived within the limits of that station, unless the inferior officer shall have received some order directly from, and shall be acting in execution of some order issued by such superior flag officer.

No chief flag officer quitting any station, except upon some definite urgent service, and with the intention of returning to the station as soon as such service is performed, shall share in any prize taken by our ships or vessels left behind after he has passed the limits of the station, or after he has surrendered the command to another flag officer appointed by the Admiralty to command in chief upon such station.

An inferior flag officer quitting any station (except when detached by orders from his Commander-in-Chief upon a special service, accompanied with orders to return to such station as soon as the service has been performed), shall have no share in prizes taken by the ships and vessels remaining on the station after he has passed the limits thereof.

In like manner flag officers remaining on such station shall not share in the prizes taken by such inferior officer, or by ships or vessels under his immediate command, after he has quitted the limits of the station, except he has been detached as aforesaid.

A Commander-in-Chief or other flag officer belonging to any station shall not share in any prize or prizes taken out of the limits of that station by any ship or vessel under the command of a flag officer of any other station, or under orders from Our Commissioners of the Admiralty, unless such Commander-in-Chief or flag officer is expressly authorised by Our said Commissioners to take the command of that station in which the prize or prizes is or are taken, and shall actually have taken upon him such command.

Every commodore having a captain under him shall be esteemed a flag officer with respect to the thirtieth part of prizes taken, whether he be commanding-in-chief or serving under command.

The first captain to the admiral and Commander-in-Chief of Our fleet, and also the first captain to any flag officer appointed to command a fleet of ten ships of the line or upwards, shall be deemed to be a flag officer for the purpose of sharing in prize, and shall be entitled to share therein as the junior flag officer of such fleet.

Any officer on board any of Our ships of war at the time of capturing any prize or prizes who shall have more commissions than one shall be entitled only to share in such prize or prizes according to the share allotted to him by the abovementioned distribution in respect to his superior commission or office.

And with reference to these regulations it is to be noted, that a captain, commander, or other commanding officer of a ship or vessel shall be deemed to be under the command of a flag when he shall actually have received some order from, or be acting in the execution of some order issued by a flag officer, whether he be or be not within the limits of the station of such flag officer; and in the event of his being directed to join a flag officer on any station, he shall be deemed to be under the command of such flag officer from the time when he arrives within the limits of the station, which circumstance is always to be carefully noted in the log book; and it shall be considered that he continues under the flag officer of such station until he shall have received some order directly from or be acting in the execution of some order issued by some other flag officer duly authorized, or by the Lord High Admiral, or Our Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral.

And We hereby direct, that the captain, commander, lieutenant commanding, staff commander commanding, master commanding, or any other officer duly commanding any ship, sloop, or vessel of war, singly making a capture or seizure, or otherwise entitled to the distributive benefit arising from any proceeds, reward, grant, bounty, salvage, or other award as aforesaid, that is to say: the officer actually in command at the time shall have one-tenth of the remainder, or if there is no flag, one-tenth of the entire net proceeds, except that if the single capturing ship be a rated ship having a commander under the captain, the commander shall take a portion of the one-tenth part as if he were commander of a sloop according to the proportion hereinafter set forth ; and if more than one commanding officer of the same rank of command shall be entitled to share as joint captors, &c., the one-tenth shall be equally divided between them ; but when captains, commanders, lieutenants commanding, staff commanders commanding, and masters commanding, respectively, Our ships and vessels of war, and commanders under captains in rated ships, shall share together in whatever variety of combination, the one-tenth shall be so divided into parts for a graduated apportionment as to provide for each captain receiving six parts ; each commander of a sloop, or commander under the captain in a rated ship, three parts ; and each lieutenant commanding, staff commander commanding, or master commanding, or other officer actually commanding a small vessel of war, two parts ; which we hereby direct shall be the proportion in which they shall respectively share ; commodores of the second class, and field officers of Marines or of land forces serving as marines, doing duty as field officers, above the rank of major, to share as captains ; and field officers of marines or of land forces serving as marines, and doing duty in the rank of major, to share as commanders of sloops. And We further direct, that after provision shall thus have been made for the flag share (if any), and for the portion of the commanding officer or officers and others as above specified, the remainder of the net proceeds shall be distributed in ten classes, so that each officer, man, and boy composing the rest of the complements of our ships, sloops, and vessels of war, and actually on board at the time of any such capture, seizure, &c., as aforesaid, and every person present and assisting shall receive shares or a share according to his class, as set forth in the following scale:—

THE Queen has been graciously pleased to confer the decoration of the "Albert Medal" on SAMUEL POPPLESTONE, of Start Farm, in the county of Devon, Farmer.

The following are the services in respect of which the decoration has been conferred, viz.:

The "Spirit of the Ocean," a barque of 557 tons, with a crew of eighteen hands and twenty-four passengers, was wrecked on the rocks, four hundred yards to the west of Start Point, in the county of Devon, on the 23rd March, 1866.

The mate and one of the crew were saved by Samuel Popplestone, unaided, and at the imminent risk of his own life

The circumstances under which this very dangerous service was performed by Mr. Popplestone are as follows, viz. :

The vessel, with a part of her crew sick, and the mates and passengers assisting in working her, was caught in a strong gale from the south-west; and on Friday, the 23rd March, she was off the Start, in a very dangerous position.

Mr. Popplestone observed the peril of the vessel, and knew that if she failed to weather the rocks she must inevitably be lost, and every soul lost with her, unless assistance could be rendered from the shore.

He therefore despatched a messenger on one of his own horses to Tor Cross, to rouse the villagers, and another messenger on horseback to give information to the Coast Guard.

The vessel had by this time struck on the rocks, and had begun to break up rapidly.

Mr Popplestone took a small coil of rope, and, alone and unaided, proceeded over the shore from rock to rock until he got near to the vessel. The wind at the time was blowing at force 11, that is, a storm, nearly equal to a hurricane, accompanied by rain, and a very heavy and dangerous sea. Whilst Popplestone was standing on the rock nearest to the vessel, endeavouring to effect a communication with the vessel, he was washed off; but, by a great effort on his part, and by the help of a returning sea, he regained his footing, and from this perilous position he succeeded in saving the lives of two persons, and conveying them beyond the reach of danger.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 22, 1866.

Foreign Office, June 21, 1866.

EXTRACT of a Despatch which has been addressed to the Earl of Clarendon by Sir John Crampton, Her Majesty's Minister at Madrid, dated the 16th of June :—

I did not omit to urge upon the Spanish Government the expediency of making public, with the least possible delay, the decisions which may be come to by the Spanish Central and Local Boards of Health, as to the ports of Great Britain which they consider to be "foul" or "suspected," in consequence of its being supposed that cases of cholera morbus have occurred at them, or in their neighbourhood.

According to the present practice, these decisions, if taken by the Central Board at Madrid, are communicated to the Local Boards by instructions, and if taken by the Local Boards, are reported to the Central Board, at Madrid, for approval.

They appear to be sometimes made public in the local newspapers or official bulletins, or else to become known only by their application to the cases of vessels arriving in Spain from the ports to which they refer.

It was for this reason that it appeared to me that it would be some mitigation of the inconveniences and losses to which British shipping is exposed in Spain in regard to quarantine, if as little time as possible should be lost in making known to British subjects the nature of the quarantine to which they would have to submit on arriving in this country from ports considered by the Spanish Authorities to be infected with contagious diseases, and that the best way of effecting this would be the publication in the Gazette of Madrid of all such decisions.

In this the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs agreed with me, and promised that he would move the Minister of the Interior to adopt the suggestion.

It appears to me, however, that the most effectual way of informing British shipowners, so far as it can be done beforehand, of the quarantines likely to be imposed upon their vessels in Spain, would be, that Her Majesty's Consuls at the Spanish ports should keep themselves in communication with the Local Authorities upon the subject, and immediately communicate to Her Majesty's Government the decisions of the Spanish Authorities, whether emanating from the Central Board of Health at Madrid, or from the Local Board at the port at which they reside.

Although this would not, under the provisions of the present law of health, in all cases ensure to a British ship-master a knowledge of the nature and amount of quarantine which he would have to undergo on his arrival in Spain, it would often apprize him of it.

The suggestion which recommends a notification by the Spanish Government of its resolution to regard all arrivals from British ports, even if bearers of clean bills of health as subject to quarantine, has already been complied with by the issue of the Circular No. 151, published in the Official Bulletin of the Province of Pontevedra, because by the decision therein notified, that "all the ports near Liverpool are "to be considered foul, and all the ports of "Great Britain notoriously compromised," vessels from Great Britain are, according to the 30th Article of the sanitary law, subjected to quarantine whether they bear clean bills of health or not; and the species and degree of quarantine to be applied to them is regulated by the other provisions of the same law.

The suggestion which recommends that "Ports "should be specified on the Spanish sea-board at "which vessels arriving from non infected ports "with clean bills of health may perform quaran-"tine," could have no application under the operation of the present law, because by it such vessels would either be at once admitted to pratique, or else, in case of an official decision in Spain having declared the ports they came from infected, and thereby rendered their clean bills of health of no avail, they would be subject to quarantine either at a foul lazaretto or at a lazaretto of observation, as the case might be, under the provisions of the law.

The misapprehension under which most of those who have complained of the manner in which quarantine has been imposed in Spain, is that the enforcement of it by the authorities upon a vessel bearing a clean bill of health is in every case "illegal." This is, however, not so.

The Spanish Boards of Health, it is true, establish quarantines often extremely vexatious and detrimental to commerce, as well as of unnecessary severity, but generally speaking the letter of the law is observed.

The 30th Article of the sanitary laws of 1855, which is generally appealed to as enabling vessels with clean bills of health to pratique, stands as follows:—

"Art. 30. Todo buque procedente del extranjero con patente limpia visada por el Agente Consular Español, con buenas condiciones higiénicas, y sin accidentes sospechosos en el viaje se admitir desde luego á libre plática sin mas que la visita y reconocimiento, a no ser que conste oficialmente que en el punto o puerto de donde proceda el buque se habia desarrollado alguna enfermedad contagiosa."

By the last clause your Lordship will perceive that the presentation of a clean bill of health does not ensure a vessel against quarantine in case the Spanish Boards of Health may, in the meantime, have received information which they consider to be official, that a contagious malady has appeared at the port of departure, even when the Spanish Consul there, from ignorance of the existence of such a malady, or from its having declared itself after the departure of the vessel, has countersigned her clean bill of health. A circumstance which renders the occurrence of such decisions on the part of the Spanish Boards of Health very frequent, and often unexpected is the entire distrust felt in this country, and by its government of the efficiency of the sanitary measures in force in Great Britain.

The consequence of this is, that little or no attention is paid by the Spanish authorities to a public announcement by the authorities in Great Britain that a contagious malady has ceased to exist, or to the absence of any announcement that such malady exists ; any report which may come to the knowledge of the Spanish Boards of Health, which they deem credible, that contagious malady has shown itself in an English port or place, is considered by them to be sufficient to authorize them to adopt measures of precaution, which are rigidly enforced until they themselves, from their own sources of information, become convinced that all danger has disappeared.

In the present instance it may be announced as a certainty that all vessels coming to Spain from Great Britain will be subjected to quarantine, either at a foul lazaretto or at a lazaretto of observation, as their ports of departure may be judged to be foul "sucios," or compromised "comprometidos," and that it would be impossible to assure to a shipmaster beforehand to which of these annoyances he will be exposed.

Under these circumstances, and their being in the present state of public feeling in Spain upon this subject no chance of any relaxation of the law of health, I can see no complete remedy for the inconvenience to which our commerce with this country will be subjected, if unfortunately the cholera should prevail in any degree in Great Britain this summer.

NOTE.—Translation of the Article quoted in this Despatch.

"Every ship arriving from abroad with a clean bill of health viséd by the Spanish Consular Agent, in good sanitary condition, without suspicious accidents during the voyage, will be at once admitted to free pratique after the visit and examination, except it be known officially that some contagious malady has broken out in the place or port from whence the ship sailed."

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 26,

1866.

By the QUEEN.

A PROCLAMATION.

VICTORIA, R.

WHEREAS We are happily at peace with all Sovereigns, Powers, and States;

And whereas, notwithstanding Our utmost exertions to preserve peace between all the Sovereign Powers and States now at war, hostilities have unhappily commenced between His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, His Majesty the King of Prussia, His Majesty the King of Italy, and the Germanic Confederation;

And whereas a state of war now exists between His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, His Majesty the King of Prussia, His Majesty the King of Italy, and the Germanic Confederation, and between their respective subjects and others inhabiting within their countries, territories, or dominions;

And whereas We are on terms of friendship and amicable intercourse with all and each of these Sovereigns, and with the Germanic Confederation, and with their several subjects, and others inhabiting within their countries, territories, or dominions;

And whereas great numbers of Our loyal subjects reside and carry on commerce, and possess property and establishments, and enjoy various rights and privileges, within the dominions of each of the aforesaid Sovereigns and States, protected by the faith of Treaties between Us and each of the aforesaid Sovereigns and States ;

And whereas We, being desirous of preserving to Our subjects the blessings of peace, which they now happily enjoy, are firmly purposed and determined to abstain altogether from taking any part, directly or indirectly, in the war now unhappily existing between the said Sovereigns and States, their subjects and territories, and to remain at peace with, and to maintain a peaceful and friendly intercourse with all and with each of them, and their respective subjects, and others inhabiting within any of their countries, territories, and dominions, and to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the said hostilities and war, unhappily existing between them ;

We, therefore, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation.

And We do hereby strictly charge and command all Our loving subjects to govern themselves accordingly, and to observe a strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid hostilities and war, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws and statutes of the realm in this behalf, or the law of nations in relation thereto, as they will answer to the contrary at their peril.

And whereas in and by a certain statute made and passed in the fifty-ninth year of His Majesty King George the Third, entitled "An Act to prevent the enlisting or engagement of His Majesty's subjects to serve in a foreign service, and the fitting out or equipping, in His Majesty's dominions, vessels for warlike purposes without His Majesty's licence," it is amongst other things declared and enacted as follows:—"That if any person within any part of the United Kingdom, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, shall, without the leave and licence of His Majesty, for that purpose first had and obtained as aforesaid, equip, furnish, fit out, or arm, or attempt or endeavour to equip, furnish, fit out, or arm, or procure to be equipped, furnished, fitted out, or armed, or shall knowingly aid, assist, or be concerned in the equipping, furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any ship, or vessel, with intent or in order that such ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of any foreign Prince, State, or Potentate, or of any foreign colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government in or over any foreign State, colony, province, or part of any province or people, as a transport or store-ship, or with intent to cruize or commit hostilities against any Prince, State, or Potentate, or against the subjects or citizens of any Prince, State, or Potentate, or against the persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government in any colony, province, or part of any province or country, or against the inhabitants of any foreign colony, province, or part of any province or country, with whom His Majesty shall not then be at war, or shall, within the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's dominions, or in any settlement, colony, territory, island, or place, belonging or subject to His Majesty, issue or deliver any commission for any ship or vessel, to the intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall, upon conviction thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court in which such offender shall be convicted; and every such ship or vessel, with the tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition, and stores, which may belong to or be on board of any such ship or vessel, shall be forfeited; and it shall be lawful for any officer of His Majesty's Customs or Excise, or any officer of His Majesty's Navy, who is by law empowered to make seizures for any forfeiture incurred under any of the laws of Customs or Excise, or the laws of trade and navigation, to seize such ships and vessels aforesaid, and in such places and in such manner, in which the officers of His Majesty's Customs or Excise, and the officers of His Majesty's Navy, are empowered respectively to make seizures under the laws of Customs and Excise, or under the laws of trade and navigation; and that every such ship and vessel, with the tackle, apparel, and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition, and stores, which may belong to, or be on board of such ship or vessel, may be prosecuted, and condemned, in the like manner, and in such Courts as ships or vessels may be prosecuted and condemned for any breach of the laws made for the protection of the revenues of Customs and Excise, or of the laws of trade and navigation."

And it is, in and by the said Act, further enacted, "That if any person in any part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any part of His Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, without the leave and licence of His Majesty for that purpose first had and obtained as aforesaid, shall, by adding to the number of the guns of such vessel, or changing those on board for other guns, or by the addition of any equipment for war, increase or augment, or procure to be increased or augmented, or shall be knowingly concerned in increasing or augmenting, the warlike force of any ship or vessel of war, or cruizer, or other armed vessel, which, at the time of her arrival in any part of the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's dominions, was a ship of war, cruizer, or armed vessel, in the service of any foreign Prince, State, or Potentate, or of any person or persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, any powers of government in or over any colony, province, or part of any province or people belonging to the subjects of any such Prince, State, or Potentate, or to the inhabitants of any colony, province, or part of any province or country, under the control of any person or persons so exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall, upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court before which such offender shall be convicted."

Now, in order that none of Our subjects may unwarily render themselves liable to the penalties imposed by the said statute, We do hereby strictly command that no person or persons whatsoever, do commit any act, matter, or thing whatsoever contrary to the provisions of the said Statute, upon pain of the several penalties by the said Statute imposed, and of Our high displeasure.

And We do hereby further warn and admonish all Our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to our protection, to observe towards each and all of the aforesaid Sovereigns and States, their subjects and territories, and towards all belligerents whatsoever, with whom we are at peace, the duties of neutrality; and to respect, in all and each of them, the exercise of those belligerent rights which We and Our Royal Predecessors have always claimed to exercise.

And We do hereby further warn all Our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to Our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this Our Royal Proclamation, and of Our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of their duty as subjects of a neutral Sovereign, in a war between other Sovereigns and States, or in violation or contravention of the law of nations in that behalf, as more especially by breaking or endeavouring to break, any blockade lawfully and actually established by or on behalf of any or either of the said Sovereigns and States, by carrying officers, soldiers, despatches, arms, ammunition, military stores or materials, or any article or articles considered and deemed to be contraband of war, according to the law or modern usages of nations, for the use or service of any or either of the said Sovereigns and States, that all persons so offending, together with their ships and goods, will rightfully incur, and be justly liable to, hostile capture, and to the penalties denounced by the law of nations in that behalf.

And We do hereby give notice, that all Our subjects and persons entitled to our protection who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril and of their own wrong; and that they will in no wise obtain any protection from Us against such capture or such penalties as aforesaid, but will, on the contrary, incur Our high displeasure by such misconduct.

Given at Our Court at Windsor, this twenty-seventh day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and in the thirtieth year of Our reign.

GOD save the QUEEN.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 29, 1866.

COPY of a Letter addressed by the Earl of Clarendon to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.*

Foreign Office,

My Lords, June 26, 1866.

HER Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing hostilities between the Emperor of Austria, the King of Prussia, the King of Italy, and the German Confederation, and being moreover resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbours, ports, and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction, in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordships, for your guidance, the following rules, which are to be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's orders and directions.

Her Majesty is pleased further to command that these rules shall be put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands on and after the fourth day of July, and in Her Majesty's territories and possessions beyond the seas six days after the day when the Governor or other chief authority of each of such territories or possessions respectively shall have notified and published the same; stating in such notification that the said rules are to be obeyed by all persons within the same territories and possessions.

* Similar letters have been addressed to the Treasury. Home Office, Colonial Office, War Office, and India Office,

During the continuance of the present hostilities, all ships of war of either belligerent are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, or of any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose, or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities of warlike equipment; and no ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted to sail out of or leave any port, roadstead, or waters subject to British jurisdiction, from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war or a merchant ship) shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

2. If any ship of war of either belligerent shall, after the time when this Order shall be first notified and put in force in the United Kingdom and in the Channel Islands, and in the several Colonies and foreign possessions and dependencies of Her Majesty respectively, enter any port, roadstead, or waters belonging to Her Majesty, either in the United Kingdom or in the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's Colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, such vessel shall be required to depart and to put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, roadstead, or waters, except in case of stress of weather, or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or repairs; in either of which cases the authorities of the port, or of the nearest port (as the case may be), shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours, without permitting her to take in supplies, beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use; and no such vessel which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair shall continue in any such port, roadstead, or waters for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed. Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which there shall be any vessel (whether ships of war or merchant ships) of the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead, or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel, (whether a ship of war or merchant ship) of the one belligerent, and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship of war of the other belligerent; and the time hereby limited for the departure of such ships of war respectively shall always, in case of necessity, be extended so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this proviso, but no further or otherwise.

3. No ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted, while in any port, roadstead, or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, to take in any supplies, except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel to the nearest port of her own country, or to some nearer destination, and no coal shall again be supplied to any such ship of war in the same or any other port, roadstead, or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, without special permission, until after the expiration of three months from the time when such coal may have been last supplied to her within British waters as aforesaid.

4. Armed ships of either party are interdicted from carrying prizes made by them into the ports, harbours, roadsteads, or waters of the United Kingdom or any of Her Majesty's colonies or possessions abroad.

I am, &c.
(Signed) CLARENDON.

His Majesty's Government is, therefore, no longer in a position to afford any security for the further observance of the Treaties of the Zollverein with other Powers, by those Powers which are now at war with the Government. Prussia herself and her allies will, however, fulfil these Treaties within the limits of their power to the fullest extent. In particular, they will put no difficulty and no obstacle in the way of the transit of the productions of the Powers which have Treaty relations with them, to the territories of the Government now at war with them, in so far as those productions do not consist of articles contraband of war.

On the other hand, they will allow the productions of the States now at war with them, which are intended for the Powers having Treaty relations with them, to pass through their territory without obstruction.

With the Zollverein Treaty also ceases the operation of the free trade which is established between the Prussian territory and the territories of those Governments now at war with it. The Royal Government can, therefore, no longer treat goods coming from those territories like native goods, as hitherto, but only as foreign goods. Whence it follows that the goods of the Powers having Treaty relations with Prussia, though duty has been paid upon them in those territories, can no longer be considered as nationalised for Prussia, but, when they enter Prussia, must be considered as goods upon which duty has not been paid.

Foreign merchants will, therefore, do well, when sending goods to Prussia and the countries allied with her, through the territories of the Governments at war with Prussia, to despatch them with permits for the Prussian territory or those allied with it respectively.
